

Israelis Press Attack

... Force Stabs Into Lebanese Territory

By The Associated Press

An Israeli force stabbed into Lebanese territory and occupied a hilltop on the southwestern slopes of Mt. Hermon Sunday, according to Lebanese sources, as fighting between Israel and Syria continued for control of the strategic peak.

Neither the Israeli nor Lebanese governments immediately commented on the reports from witnesses in southern Lebanon.

The witnesses said Lebanese troops lobbed several rounds of mortar shells on the Israeli force that occupied Shahar hilltop inside Lebanon early Sunday. They said the Israelis were still on the hilltop at dusk. There was no indication of the size of the force.

Lebanese sources said the maneuver apparently was an attempt by Israel to gain an edge against the Syrians in the fighting for control of Mt. Hermon, which straddles the Syrian-Lebanese border just north of the Israeli panhandle.

The Israeli command in Tel Aviv said earlier that its warplanes pounded gun and troop emplacements six miles behind Syrian lines Sunday after Syrian gunners opened fire with artillery on Israeli defenders dug into positions on Mt. Hermon.

It said a Syrian MIG also tried to hit Israeli positions on the Mt. Hermon peak but Israeli interceptors drove it off.

Both sides want control of the peak because it commands an unrestricted view deep into Israel, Lebanon and Syria, and possession could be used as a trump card in troop disengagement talks.

Israel captured the 7,220-foot south shoulder of Mt. Hermon in 1967, but Syria held on to the rest of the massif. Last October, Syrian commandos overran the Israeli positions on the southern shoulder, but Israel in a counterattack drove the Syrians off the entire mountain.

In Damascus, a military communique said Syrian forces engaged the Israelis at 10 locations in the Golan Heights and Mt. Hermon area Sunday, and drove off two Israeli warplanes it said tried to strafe a Syrian position on Mt. Hermon.

During the daylong fighting, the communique said, Syrians forces killed or wounded a number of Israeli soldiers, destroyed two observation posts and damaged various pieces of military hardware.

Sunday was the 40th straight day of fighting on the front. In Jerusalem, Premier Golda Meir said Israel was ready to take risks and compromise with the Arabs for "a genuine peace with security," but would always stand ready for renewed fighting.

In an Independence Day message to world Jewry, Mrs. Meir said a productive peace dialogue with the Arabs depended on a strong Jewish state.

She appealed to world Jewry for "your support, your solidarity and your understanding."

Centrum Plan Eyed

... As Redevelopment

By LYNN ZERSCHLING

Star Staff Writer

City officials are eyeing the possibility of building the much talked about Centrum in downtown Lincoln as part of an overall redevelopment project.

If the City Council goes along with that plan, which has gained Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf's support, it would be the first major project headed up by the Department of Community Development.

Council Chairwoman Helen Boosalis said Sunday a meeting may be held Monday to discuss the project further. Boosalis said she wished to explore other alternatives to building the Centrum than by going the redevelopment route, however.

Also on Monday the council will formally reaffirm the city's commitment to building the 1,000-car parking and bus terminal as part of the overall Centrum project, billed as a major key to revitalization of the central business district.

Schwartzkopf admitted the city just could build the parking garage, which would be financed by general obligation bonds.

But, the mayor said, "I want the retail space in there, too. It has to be there."

If the officials select the redevelopment route, private commercial stores could be built in the Centrum. Originally, the city planned to include auxiliary retail stores in the building until a court decision struck down the public-private mix. The redevelopment route would overcome the court's objections on those grounds.

To declare the Centrum block, from 11th to 12th, N to O, as part of an overall redevelopment package, the city will have to waste no time compiling data and putting together a redevelopment plan, as required by state law.

By this spring, a resolution declaring the Centrum's eligibility for such a project will need council endorsement, City Atty. Dick Wood said. That eligibility hinges on whether the block fits the mold of "substandard" or "blighted" areas as laid down by state statute.

The next step is formulating a redevelopment plan. Wood said The plan would include a statement of land acquisition needs, demolition and removal of existing buildings, any zoning or planning changes needed and the maximum density and land use changes in the finished product.

The Centrum, Wood said, would be just one element of the plan if the plan were broadened to include a non-city capital improvements project like 13th St.

Plans for turning 13th from J to R into a prestige avenue are on the drawing boards of the Downtown Advisory Committee.

The overall redevelopment plan is then reviewed by the planning commission which checks its conformity with the Comprehensive Plan. The lawmakers then would have to approve or reject the proposal, Wood added.

By mid to late summer the council would be required to issue general obligation bonds to finance construction of the Centrum and set the matter on the ballot for a November showdown with Lincoln voters.

Overseer of the entire redevelopment project would be Community Development Director Leo Scherer. His agency would retain City Hall control of the project, as authorized by the Legislature in LB299 last year.

That measure allows municipalities to set up redevelopment projects through a department of city government, instead of through a separate, autonomous renewal agency. City officials long have opposed that arrangement.

WELSCH ... runs on pro-weed platform.

Weed Job Eyed By Weed Lover

By LIANE GUENTHER

Star Staff Writer

Roger Welsh is running for the Lancaster County Weed Control Authority on a pro-weed platform.

And the University of Nebraska-Lincoln professor expects to win "if people weigh the issues and vote intelligently."

The noted folklorist and natural foods lover said he first decided to run for public office on a whimsy.

Besides, it makes for droll campaign slogans. "If you can't beat 'em, eat 'em," and, if you prefer the political scene, "We promise to cooperate fully with the special Watergate Committee."

His campaign song, "Weed No More My Lady."

He even vowed not to use his post on the Weed Control Authority as a "stepping stone" to higher government offices, unless there is a "clear draft."

Since his budding campaign blossomed, he is taking it much more seriously.

Chemical Sprays Welsh said he is concerned about the amount of chemical sprays being used in the county to keep weeds under control.

"This is when it ceases to be a joke," he said.

Two years ago, the Weed Control Authority budgeted $450 for chemical sprays, he said. This year, $4,500 was budgeted for spraying.

"What really concerns me," he continued, "is that they've overspent their budget by $1,500 and the spraying hadn't even been done for the spring."

Welsh is one of six "urban" candidates vying for two seats on the board. He said members earn $12 a meeting plus mileage expenses.

Press Releases His election efforts are limited. When invited, he talks to local organizations. He also sends lots of press releases to the media.

For this summer, he's planning a 69-cent-a-plate fundraising dinner featuring beans, wienies and weeds.

Welsh pledged that if elected he would stop spending money for sprays and start hiring kids to go out in ditches and hoe weeds.

"Kids with hoes don't drift," he said. "Sprays do."

He said he would also spend some of the spraying money to educate Weed Control Authority employees.

"Unsophisticated" Describing them as "utterly unsophisticated," Welsh said they see the city as "bluegrass and nonbluegrass" and the farm scene as "crops and noncrops."

Not long ago a couple of Weed Control Authority employees came to his house to inspect his "weed garden" lawn and told him he would have to remove all "useless vegetation."

Welsh reportedly escorted the men outside and pointed out to them that every weed in his lawn had a specific use, "except for the bluegrass. I don't know how that got here."

Sprouting in his yard are such culinary delights as gayfeather and chicory, as well as the state flower, goldenrod.

It ended in a standoff, he said. "I refused to mow and they tramped away."

Traditional Foods

Welsh said his interest in weeds stems from his interest in traditional foods, which in turn sprouted from his studies of folk beliefs and customs.

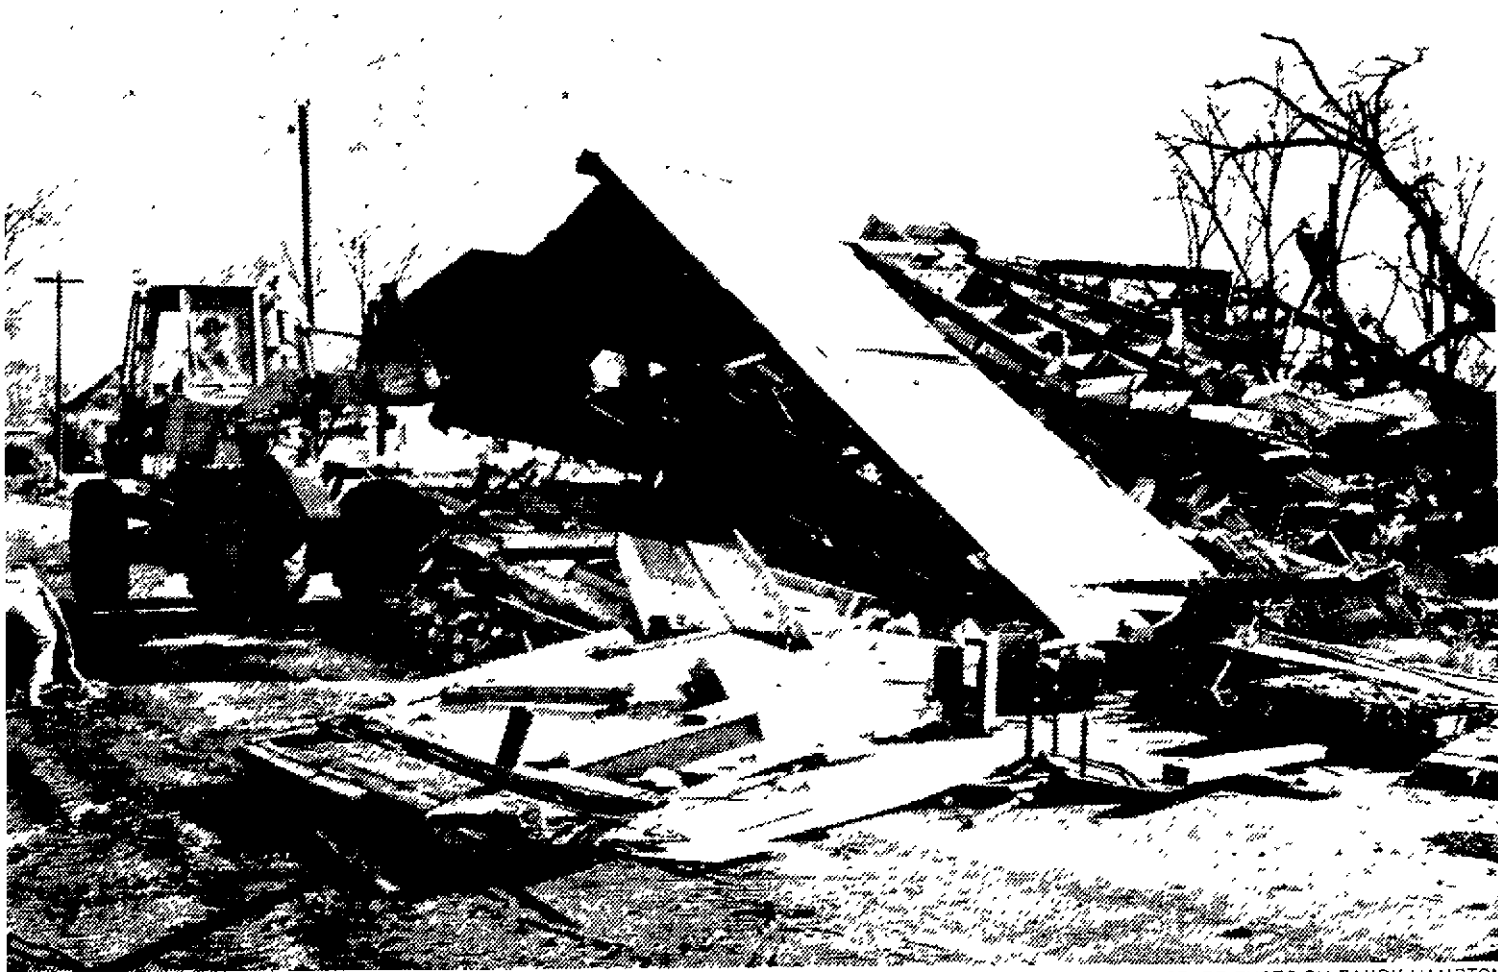

During his studies, he said, he found the Omaha Indians ate things we consider weeds, such as milkweed.

"Not only is it edible but it's delicious," he said.

Welsh insists he is not a health food nut or any kind of fanatic. He eats weeds because they're convenient and they taste better.

Besides, his kids love 'em.

"You know how hard it is to get kids to eat broccoli," he said. "Well, they're delighted to eat weeds."

RESIDENTS AND VOLUNTEERS ... pitched in to clean up Arcadia Sunday after tornado.

Arcadia Cleaning Up Quickly

Arcadia (UPI) — Hundreds of volunteers poured into this central Nebraska farm community Sunday to begin a "well-ganized" cleanup effort in the aftermath of a tornado which cut block wide path through town. "The morale is terrific for what we've gone through," said Mayor Del Dalby. "We're ruling trash out of here like ad."

Dalby and State Civil Defense Director Burl Johnson, who toured the area early Sunday, estimated damages at between $0,000 and $750,000.

The twister approached the town of 480 residents late Saturday from the southwest across the Middle Loup River and churned through the area to the northeast.

Officials credit an early warning — the twister could be seen approaching the town from nine miles away — with the fact there were no injuries.

"We didn't have church Sunday because we were cleaning up," Dalby said. "But you can bet there were some prayers said Saturday."

Dalby said he conferred with Gov. J. J. Exon by telephone. He said Exon is dispatching two Farmers Home Administration representatives to the stricken area Monday to meet with residents. State Sen. Dennis Rasmussen of Scotia also will attend the afternoon meeting, Dalby said.

Dalby estimated power to the community was cut off for about nine hours. Mrs. Dorothy Lippincott, Arcadia Civil Defense director, said the nine persons left homeless had been taken in by relatives.

"We're very well organized. We have 325 volunteers," Mrs. Lippincott said. "We feel that those who are here working are enough. We don't want too many so that people are in each other's way. Right now it's very efficient."

Dalby said a farmer east of town, Carroll Lutz, had donated the use of a large gully on his farm for use as a landfill.

"We're keeping about three tractors busy on the farm," Dalby said. "Everyone's doing a marvelous job. It's sort of like the good old American spirit you hear about."

Dalby said 25 National Guardsmen, headquartered in Broken Bow, would remain in the area until at least Monday for security purposes.

"We've had absolutely no looting," Dalby said. "We've been well taken care of."

Dalby gave the following damage report: —13 businesses received partial damage or were completely destroyed. Eight businesses weren't damaged at all.

—About six homes, including two mobile homes, were completely destroyed. About seven or eight homes received partial damage.

—No public facilities were damaged, except for Nebraska Public Power District lines.

—The Sacred Heart Catholic Church was totally destroyed.

Authorities Continue Questioning Suspects In Shooting Of Woman

Lancaster County Atty. Paul Douglas said Sunday that at least six suspects had been questioned in released regarding the shooting death of a young Lincoln woman.

Douglas said the victim,

Patricia C. Webb, 24, had been shot "at least 10 times and maybe 11" in the head, arm, and front and back of her body.

He said authorities had been searching for Miss Webb who was last seen Wednesday night at a Lincoln bookstore where she was employed.

Douglas said the bookstore owner had reported that $30 in cash, a calculator and 51 books were missing.

Miss Webb's body was found Saturday at the foot of a pile of hay near a cowpen on a vacant farm owned by Oscar Fiene of Lincoln.

Fiene found the body partially concealed by a bale of hay. The farm is located about 19 miles south of Lincoln off U.S. 77.

Douglas said Miss Webb had tape over her mouth and was clothed only in a blue quilted jacket.

He said the woman was not a native of Lincoln but "had been in Lincoln for a long time."

Douglas said that a .25 caliber weapon was used in the shooting, and ballistics tests were being conducted on bullet fragments to determine if a .22 caliber weapon was also used.

The time of death and where the shooting occurred have still not been determined.

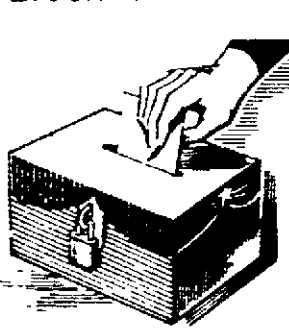

Douglas said at least three of the suspects had been given lie detector tests, but there was still no "prime suspect."

Cambodian Troops Driven From Beachhead

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Rebel troops routed government forces from their beachhead north of Phnom Penh on Sunday after a savage 24-hour attack, the Cambodian command reported.

Casualties among the estimated 1,500-man garrison were not known but were feared to be heavy.

Some of the troops managed to fight their way 1½ miles to the north and link up with government troops isolated at Longvek, the command said. The Ko Pong Luong beachhead, 23 miles from Phnom Penh, had been beefed up with 20 armored vehicles and four 105mm cannons. A number of armored personnel carriers were destroyed but it was not known if the cannons were still operating when they were abandoned, sources said.

The troops on the beachhead and in the Longvek vehicle repair facility just to the north were originally sent to retake Oudong, the 17th century former royal capital that fell a month ago. Oudong is 20 miles northwest of Phnom Penh.

A Western military observer said the withdrawal from the beachhead represented a major defeat for the government, and an Asian diplomat said, "There is no way to withdraw the troops from around Oudong, they must fight to the death."

The government's only option to save the troops and armor around Oudong would be to mount a massive navy operation to reinforce the beachhead or open Highway 5 to the beleaguered garrison.

Highway 5 is controlled by the rebels for 10 miles south of the beachhead. No rescue operations have been planned, according to diplomatic sources.

Insurgent forces have strung wire and mines across the Tonle Sap River at a point 14 miles north of Phnom Penh, and resupply convoys have been unable to travel up river since Tuesday, military sources said. A large number of wounded near a pagoda on the beachhead had been awaiting evacuation by the navy since then.

The beachhead was being resupplied by mail convoys and the vehicle repair facility by four air drops daily, field reports said.

With a 25-mile long river supply line that was occupied by insurgents for 15 miles, the beachhead position rapidly became untenable as rebel forces began increasing their pressure.

The government was unable to evacuate the troops because it lacked the needed boats, a Western observer said.

Israeli Laborites Clear Way To Choose Candidate

(c) New York Times News Service
Tel Aviv — The central committee of Israel's dominant Labor Party cleared the way for the selection of a candidate to succeed Premier Golda Meir, who resigned April 11. After four hours of debate, the committee defeated proposals for immediate new elections and voted by a 2-to-1 margin to authorize a candidate to attempt to form a new coalition government.

Egypt To Cut Reliance On Soviet Arms

Cairo — Egypt decided to cease relying on the Soviet Union for all its modern armament because Moscow had used the supply of weapons and ammunition to Egypt as an "instrument of policy leverage," seeking to influence Egyptian actions. This was an unacceptable position, according to President Anwar El-Sadat, in an interview with Cyrus L. Sulzberger of the New York Times.

Kennedy Draws Polling Blank

Moscow — Senator Edward M. Kennedy tried out American-style public opinion polling on an audience at Moscow State University and drew a virtual blank when he asked for a show of hands on whether the Soviet Union should be spending more or less on defense. All but a few in the audience declined to indicate an opinion until Kennedy and a Russian translator rephrased the question. Then the hall almost unanimously raised their hands in favor of the present level of spending. (More on Page 2.)

Spasm Of Price Hikes Expected

Washington — For millions of Americans, the ending of more than 32 months of wage and price controls next week is expected to bring another spasm of price increases that will further erode their already shrunken paychecks. Although controls already have been lifted from much of the economy in anticipation of the program's probable conclusion on April 30, a number of items remain to be freed. Items making up almost one-third of the government's wholesale price index still are controlled as is about 12% of the consumer price index.

Nixon To Face Tax Cut Pressure

Washington — Economic instability and increasing pressure from Democratic leaders for a tax cut will add to the problems

President Nixon will face when Congress returns from the Easter recess. Following reports of the highest rate of inflation since 1951 and a decline in the gross national product, Sen. Hubert Humphrey joined other influential Senate Democrats in proposing a tax cut.

Oceanic Power Plants Studied

New York — Ground work is being laid for realistic testing of the hypothesis that substantial amounts of energy could be derived, at low cost and with no pollution, from temperature differences within the oceans. Two conceptual designs for oceanic power plants of this type are in preparation of an academic level and the national science foundation, which is financing these studies, is offering $1.8 million for further development, chiefly by industry.

Segretti Gets No Work Offers

Los Angeles — A few embarrassed encounters with former aides of President Nixon, averted glances from long-time friends and no offers of work have marked the days of Donald L. Segretti, one of the first Nixon aides indicted in the Watergate case, since his release from a federal prison on March 25. The 32-year-old lawyer was named as one of 50 "undercover Nixon operatives" employed by the White House and the Committee to Re-Elect the President to spy on and disrupt the primary campaigns of major Democratic presidential candidates. This led to his imprisonment.

Publishers Decry Challenges

New York — A "growing barrage" of challenges to First Amendment guarantees of press freedom along with "ever lengthening tentacles of government encroachment" on business was decry by the American Newspaper Publishers Association, whose annual meeting began here. An association report on labor conditions said the end of wage controls would make the newspaper industry's cost struggle "much more difficult in 1974," but that an "increasing flood of new technology" should help even while it has led to "a rush of conflicting jurisdictional claims" by unions.

Plant Is Closed In Pollution Case

Silver Bay, Minn. (AP) — Reserve Mining Co. employees and Silver Bay residents expressed shock and dismay Sunday over a federal judge's decision to close the firm on only seven hours notice.

In an order late Saturday afternoon, Federal Judge Miles Lord directed Reserve to halt the discharge of wastes into Lake Superior and the air as of 12:01 a.m. Sunday. That, in effect, forced the closing of Reserve's taconite processing plant at Silver Bay, throwing 3,200 people out of work.

Reserve's mine, located 47 miles inland at Babbitt, Minn., also was shut down.

Reserve President Edward M. Furness said the firm would appeal Lord's order.

Lord's decision followed a controversial nine-month trial in U.S. District Court in Minneapolis. The federal government, the states of Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan and several environmental groups had charged that Reserve was polluting Lake Superior and the air in the region with discharges from the plant.

Silence, Laughter, Hostility Greet Kennedy In Moscow

MOSCOW (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy was met with silence, laughter and open hostility at Moscow State University on Sunday, then was hustled out of the auditorium on the pretext he wasn't feeling well.

Kennedy had asked the audience of Soviet university students and other spectators whether they thought Soviet military spending should be increased or decreased. His question was greeted first with silence, then with an explosion of laughter.

There is no public discussion in the Soviet Union of defense expenditures, and it apparently struck the audience as bizarre and funny that Kennedy would ask their opinion.

An elderly man in the audience angrily shook his fist at Kennedy and shouted, "That question is a provocation." Those near him murmured agreement.

The man then stood up and told the Massachusetts Democrat: "We spend as much on defense as our country requires."

Kennedy, who often asks questions of his American student audiences, then asked the audience to vote by raised hands

Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko. Details of the meeting were not disclosed.

The 600-seat auditorium in the Humanities Building was filled, but many of the spectators were middle-aged or older. The building is off limits unless one has a special pass or permission.

A British professor who teaches at the university said a notice had been posted on the bulletin board last week that the speech was open to students and faculty. But he was not allowed in when he showed his university pass.

In his speech, Kennedy appealed to the Soviet Union to allow Americans to travel more freely within Russia.

The senator said Russia should not get upset when its domestic policies are criticized by Americans, an apparent reference to U.S. criticism of the Soviet government's policies on emigration. That policy led Congress to block the granting of tariff concessions and bank credits to the Kremlin.

"In general, I do not believe that one nation should interfere directly in the internal affairs of another," Kennedy said. "But I also do not believe in silence — whether on your part, or on ours."

At Parent-Teacher Conferences:

Students Did The Talking

By PATTY BEUTLER
Star Staff Writer

At some recent parent-teacher conferences at Hawthorne School it was the students who did the talking.

Breaking from the traditional conference format, the children in Team E, the oldest in the school, were asked to set up conference times with their parents and organize the material they wished to show their moms and dads.

"We encouraged the kids to pull out the things they wanted to share with their parents," said team leader Mrs. Ruth Weatherl. She told them that not every subject had to be covered.

"We let the child guide the conference," she stressed.

But she noted that most of the kids were very honest in what they showed their parents. "They didn't want to fake anything," she added.

She went on to say that if a child had a particular problem the parents in most cases had already been to the school to talk about it.

One of the five team teachers tried to be nearby at the time of the talk, said Mrs. Weatherl, so that questions could be answered or explanations offered when needed.

"We teachers learned a lot about the kids by sitting back and listening," she said. It was interesting, she felt, to see which things were important to the children and how they explained them to their parents.

"It was also good experience for the teacher to be within listening distance and not jump into the conversation," she added.

There was a slight reluctance on the part of the children when the idea first came up, Mrs. Weatherl noted.

But judging by the fact that no one has asked "are we going to have to do those dumb conferences again," the team leader feels the trial run was a success.

One of the pleased participating parents, Mrs. Brian Erickson, feels that her daughter Chris "hit the points she's interested in" during their talk. She was impressed that Chris showed her "the bad as well as the good."

But she felt it was valuable to have the teacher available to explain some of the mechanics of the child's record-keeping.

Although Mrs. Erickson discusses Chris' work at home, she found it easier to talk in the school setting with all the materials in front of her.

Said Chris: "I can talk anywhere. Just ask anyone."

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Michael Mealey is Tokyo bureau chief of McGraw-Hill World News.)

By MICHAEL MEALY

Tokyo — To most motorists the clean-engine car may seem to be a product of the future — a vehicle that will be unveiled only after teams of engineers, under severe pressure from lawmakers, unravel a multitude of technical problems that appear to be nearly insurmountable.

The fact is that the clean-engine car is here, at least one good enough to pass the 1975 clean air act standards in the U.S.

Moreover, the car is not a prototype. It has been on the market since last December in Japan and will hit show rooms in the United States late this fall.

Finally, it doesn't look like something out of a science fiction movie, to be plugged in every night or fed clouds of steam to get moving in the morning. Most drivers would be hard-pressed to distinguish its performance from conventional cars with the same horsepower.

Interestingly, the car was developed by Japan's Honda Motor Co., LTD., better known for putting people on motorcycles than for advanced automotive technology. Honda calls its offering the compound vortex controlled combustion (CVCC) engine.

In simple terms, the engine differs from conventional internal combustion engines in that it has two combustion chambers over each cylinder. It is in the combustion chamber that gasoline ignites to power the motor. In the CVCC emissions of hydrocarbons, carbon monoxide and other pollutants are sharply reduced by means of the small auxiliary chambers.

While the differences in the CVCC's design are far from simple, they do not require vast retooling of assembly lines. The CVCC on sale in Japan today costs only $163 more than the same model with a conventional engine.

Production of the CVCC car, with a 1.5 liter engine, currently is about 2,000 units a month, and customers must wait 30 days for delivery. Honda hopes to boost output to 10,000 units a month by this summer.

Taizo Ueda, general manager of public relations for Honda, says the CVCC has not only received enthusiastic reception in Japan, but has served to draw more customers seeking other Honda models. "Last March, our auto sales were up 76 per cent over a year ago," he says. "The CVCC has really helped our image." Honda dealers in the U.S. are "very enthusiastic" about the potential of the CVCC in that market. Ueda adds:

He also reports that other automakers are passing along favorable comments to Honda about their research with the engine.

Ford and Chrysler have bought licenses for the know-how, along with Toyota and Iguzu of Japan. General Motors and several European auto manufacturers have also approached Honda about purchasing the technology.

I haven't had a single problem," he says. "The only difference I can find in performance is the CVCC seems to start faster in cold weather." After using the car three months, Hiroshi is convinced that the CVCC will offer him no more problems than a conventional car.

England's Yanks Facing Tax Bite

LONDON — At Mirabelle's and other plush expense-account restaurants, the talk of England's American colony dwells on one subject of common concern — taxes. The newly installed Labor government has announced its intention of taxing all of the income and capital gains of long-term residents from abroad. Much of this income is now tax-exempt. As a result, many Americans are wondering if they can afford to continue living in England.

Protests from expatriate writers, film directors, oil company executive, bankers and — yes — tax consultants are flooding into the office of Denis Healy, chancellor of the exchequer. The complainants argue, among other things, that the proposed tax changes will force multi-national companies to move their headquarters from London.

It is difficult to imagine John Paul Getty, England's richest expatriate resident, voluntarily paying taxes on his vast annual income. Instead, Getty probably will leave his ancient, non-ancestral estate and re-establish himself in France or Switzerland. Development of the North Sea oil fields will suffer if technicians from overseas no longer find it advantageous to work here.

Some Americans in London assert that the Labor government is cutting off its nose to spite the wealthy. But the dispassionate observer will readily agree that it is galling to see foreigners living in high style while Englishmen stoop under the ever-mounting burden of taxation. Healy has promised, moreover, to tax wealthy Britons more heavily when he presents next autumn's budget.

"Americans have had it very good for many years here," a London-based U. S. Internal Revenue Service official said. Now, he added, they will become "concerned." And how! A married taxpayer earning $25,000 a year in the United States now pays approximately $5,000 in federal income taxes. On the same income in Britain, he will pay around $8,000.

To compound the misery of top-level executives from abroad, the impending tax bite coincides with demands from the home office to cut down on expense accounts. Executives of American-based companies have grown accustomed to the life of an Edwardian prince, replete with chauffeur-driven limousines and luxury apartments paid for by their employers. Now they will have to scrimp, like everyone else.

Many Americans have avoided British income taxes up till now by living on their "assets." Here is how the game is played: An American contemplating a three- or four-year stay in England goes to his bank and obtains a loan for, say, $75,000. Brought into England as "capital," this money is tax-exempt.

Meanwhile, his salary is deposited to his account at home. Under present American law, the first $25,000 of the annual income of an American living abroad is exempt from federal income taxes.

Instead of paying only one tax, if that, many expatriates may soon find themselves paying two. The Internal Revenue Service has produced a 28-page tax guide for American citizens living abroad. It covers such things as interest equalization and the hair-splitting difference between bona fide residence and physical presence.

After weighing all the alternatives — and that will take time — Americans living in Britain may come to the reluctant conclusion that they can and must go home again.

WASHINGTON — Now that The Thumb of Michigan has turned down the President and elected its first Democratic congressman since the dark days of the depression, the GOP high command had better start facing facts and contemplating some harsh electoral precedents.

I wonder if the party leaders who openly voice fear of another 1936 or 1964 realize the full implication of this analogy. November's expected congressional losses may be the beginning of the end for the GOP.

In party terms, a 40-seat loss would drop Republicans to about the same House strength as after the 1964 debacle. Ideologically, though, things would be a lot worse. Back in 1965-66, most of the Southern conservatives were still Democrats. Now a fair percentage of those conservative Democratic seats are held by Republicans. Thus, if only 150 Republican congressmen are elected in November, that would put conservative strength about 20-30 seats below 1965-66 levels.

No party can keep getting itself into this kind of electoral ignominy and retain much of a future. If 1936 was "Strike One," 1964 was "Strike Two" and 1974 may represent "Strike Three." Besides, weakness is also writ large in lost opportunities. From 1969 to 1972, the disarray of U. S. politics served up a string of sweet pitches, and the Nixon-led GOP wasted the opportunity by hitting nothing but fouls. It's beginning to look like a "can't hit" team.

In contrast, during the 1936-1932 period when the Democrats were the minority, their spirit held up better. Despite some bad years, by 1930, when the Republican Party began to fall apart, the Democrats were ready — and able — to create a new majority coalition.

Paradoxically, 1974 devastation of Republican congressional strength is likely to breed trouble for the Democrats, too. Big trouble. First of all, if they win their two-to-one majorities, especially after Republican howls about a "veto-proof Congress," the Democrats will have to bear a large part of the onus of any 1975-76 government failure. They will be in charge in Washington; Congress, not the President, will have effective control over law-making. And if things go poorly, as they probably will, the Democratic Congress may find itself the public's chief 1976 whipping post.

Secondly, large Democratic majorities in the House and the Senate can be expected to tilt the party left. Back-bench liberals will control the party caucus, advancing controversial programs and offending many Democratic moderates and conservatives. Under these circumstances, new alignments may develop in Congress with little attention to party lines. And by 1976, old lines (and loyalties) could easily be weak enough to contribute to the growth of a new moderate-conservative coalition, maybe even a fusion arrangement.

In the meantime, some of the dire predictions we hear verge on absurdity. For example, "New Times" magazine recently described Arthur Finkelstein, a GOP pollster, as telling Senator James Buckley that his surveys showed the GOP losing 140 House seats in November if the President is still in office. One hundred and forty seats? The Republican National Committee denies any knowledge of Finkelstein congressional polls, and nobody in Washington expects losses of that magnitude. Still, it may not matter. The real question is whether the Republican Party can survive the growing probability of another 1964-type humiliation.

'It's A Little Trick I Picked Up From U. S. Oil Companies!'

Council Seeks Broader Input

We have mixed feelings about a proposal which would require appointees to city advisory boards and commissions to represent a cross-section of the community.

That requirement is incorporated into a proposed ordinance to formally establish the Charter Revision Commission as an advisory arm of city government. The language directs the mayor to "attempt to achieve a balanced commission membership which shall be a reasonable representative cross-section of the residents of the city, both geographically and socio-economically." The ordinance will receive a public hearing today.

If that provision is kept in the ordinance, the city attorney's office has said that the City Council would have grounds to refuse to confirm a mayoral appointment. The council now has the power to refuse to confirm, but the proposed requirement would set a standard for judging appointments. The language is seen as one of the first attempts made by the council to insure broadened representation and as a concrete step — if extended to other advisory bodies — toward sharing the mayor's appointment power.

But we can also appreciate the argument of those council members and people in the community who feel that appointments generally fall within narrow geographic and socio-economic confines and too often to a group of people who have made volunteer city service some-what of a career. To the extent that this is true, we think broader representation on city boards will bring in fresh and needed viewpoints and will allow segments of the community who now feel at odds with City Hall to participate in city affairs.

If the council can and does assume more power over appointments, the key will be the interpretation given to the requirement for a "reasonable representative cross-section."

The council should not think in terms of an absolute "quota system" or any type of formula which would have the effect of precluding qualified and interested citizens from appointment.

Efforts are now underway to determine which aspects of the Lincoln Alcohol Safety Action Program (LASAP) should be retained and financed from the local treasury after federal funding lapses in December.

Local officials, of course, would be blind and deaf if they did not recognize that there is considerable support within this community for dumping the program in toto.

But if officials believe that the LASAP program — which aims at taking drunk drivers off the streets and keeping them off — has had an impact and should be continued on past the federal grant stage, they should look beyond keeping only the police and court elements of the program. The follow-up, or preventive, aspect of the program is just as vital, if the goal is to cut down on drunk driving repeaters.

Recommendations now under consideration would reduce the staff and resources committed to that aspect, but would retain the police and court functions implemented under the present LASAP program.

That is typical of prevalent governmental attitudes toward the alcohol problem at the state and local levels. Attempts to deal effectively with the problem are ignored. The only answer which seems to come from government is more enforcement.

LASAP's Future

The 'Coddling' Myth

New York — Fear and hatred, once aroused, do not die easily. And the fear and hatred that grew out of — and to some extent caused — the revolt at the Attica correctional facility in September, 1971, are no different. Two and a half years after that uprising ended in the deaths of 29 inmates and 10 guards, the bitterness and anger of the time have by no means subsided among those on either side of the prison walls.

The legislative activities of an organization called "Women in Support of State Corrections Employees" is a sad example. This group of wives and relatives of corrections officers, mostly those at Attica, has actively opposed a federal-state program of providing weekend bus transportation from New York City for some Attica inmates' families, many of whom could not afford the long round trip on their own resources. The women's group also is among the strongest opponents of a state appropriation to pay some of the huge defense costs for the 60 Attica defendants, many of whom are still in prison and wards of the state.

These positions are understandable, however vindictive they seem, since they are taken by women with close personal ties to the shocking events at Attica. But it makes no sense that these correctional officers' wives — who should logically be for programs aimed at getting and keeping people out of prison — also are among lobbyists against the two-year college for state prison inmates proposed by the Department of Correctional Services and the Board of Regents of the State University of New York.

The women's opposition is not the only reason that the Legislature has eliminated from Gov. Malcolm Wilson's proposed budget a $500,000 item to get the prisoner college started at an unused correctional facility at Bedford Hills in Westchester County. But the attitude of the correction officers' wives is symbolic of the short-sightedness and animosity that seem to have gone into the legislature's action.

Two reasons were frequently expressed by legislators who voted to kill the college. They did not want to "coddle" criminals; they did not want to provide an education for a prisoner that they said some working men's sons and daughters could not afford.

The "coddling" argument doesn't hold water. About 2,500 of the 14,000 state prison inmates have high school diplomas and a reading rate at the national norm for college entrants. Most of them have nothing useful to do while incarcerated. Neither mail-order courses nor visiting teachers can provide them the educational opportunity or inspiration they would have in a full-time college program within a medium-security facility. Working for admission to that program — there would be about 600 students — and for success within it might help make useful citizens rather than criminal repeaters of many of them.

Since the state now spends about $10,000 per inmate per year, almost entirely for custodial care with virtually no training or other programs provided, the proposed college ought to be seen not as "coddling" but as a sensible investment in some of the most promising men and women among state prison inmates.

As for working men's sons and daughters who can't afford college, they are another and not less serious problem to which the legislature might well address itself. Already the City University of New York offers an open-admissions, tuition-free program. There are a variety of federal, state and private grants and scholarships available. The state university has ample places, in either four- or two-year programs, for virtually anyone who seeks admission.

But these are two different problems; and, as Chief Justice Burger has pointed out, when society sends a person to prison, "This is our act . . . and whether we like it or not, we have made him our collective responsibility. We are free to do something about him; he is not."

Both these arguments suggest an unwillingness to do anything for offenders at a time of high public fear of crime. A better reason than either for opposing the prison college has not been

ON TARGET

By DON WALTON

How do you get a new prison around here?

It seems that everybody agrees that the ancient Men's Reformatory is in need of immediate replacement if the state is going to pursue a correctional reform program geared to rehabilitation.

The Legislature in 1973 approved funding for two new prisons to replace the structure.

Governor Exon in 1974 recommended funding to draw plans for a new prison.

So if the Legislature and the governor have approved construction of a new prison, why aren't we proceeding to build one?

The 1974-75 fiscal year state budget contains no money — none at all — to plan or build a new prison.

There is $100,000 available in the capital construction budget to develop "a state plan for corrections."

But that plan involves an evaluation and review of programs, facilities and services in city, county, regional and state correctional facilities, not the preparation of drawings or plans for a facility to replace the Reformatory.

So two years after the need for a new prison (or prisons) was documented by a comprehensive legislative study undertaken with the assistance of outside professional consultants, we still have no definite action to begin the job.

The prison impasse is perhaps the best current example of how slow and ineffective government can be in resolving critical social problems.

The process is often agonizing, and it breaks down over such small matters as competing personalities, differing views over the smaller details of a proposal and, more often than not, simple misunderstandings.

One of the major blocks for the prison proposal has been the Legislature's Appropriations Committee. Somehow, its members have never become convinced of the need — or the immediate need.

When the committee declined to place prison funding in the budget last year, Roland Luedtke took the issue to the floor. In a trade-off of votes involving both Lincoln and Omaha, $12.8 million in funding was added to the budget to build new prisons in both cities and construct an adult diagnostic and evaluation center in Lincoln.

Exon wiped those projects off the board, and the Legislature sustained his vetoes.

Then Luedtke went to work to seek agreement with the governor in advance of the 1974 session. Together, they worked it out — and a $500,000 appropriation to draw plans for a new prison was included in Exon's capital construction recommendations.

But, again, the proposal failed to receive the approval of the Appropriations Committee which, instead, recommended the $100,000 study.

Again, Luedtke took the issue to the floor. But there he ran into flak from Dave Stahmer, a member of the appropriations unit, who won legislative approval to tie any prison funding to an Omaha site.

From the argument, it appeared that Stahmer's correctional reform goals were not far from those of Luedtke — but the gulf of misunderstanding was immense.

When the two of them tried to compromise their differences, a strange proposal emerged — $500,000 to plan and program six regional jails. Exon erased that appropriation with a veto, contending that it was uneeded, somewhat duplicative of current efforts and essentially inoperative.

So everyone is back where he started.

Both the Legislature and the governor have said they want a Reformatory replacement.

But there won't be any money even to draw plans for such a facility before July 1, 1975, the beginning of the budget year which is the responsibility of the 1975 Legislature.

Frustrating? Just ask Luedtke.

It took a decade and more to approve funding for a new state office building which everyone agreed was needed. Remember how it was going to be named the centennial office building in honor of Nebraska's 100th year of statehood — back in 1967.

Well, the first brick is yet to be laid on that one.

But the prison replacement is immensely more important than the office building, and its need has been ignored even longer.

The fact is that government often moves too slowly and inefficiently to meet society's problems before they have reached — and passed — the crisis stage.

Cancer Fund Drive

Lincoln, Neb.

On April 23, many other Lincolmites and I will be campaigning for the American Cancer Society. I have done so in previous years and have gotten very poor results.

According to present statistics, two out of three families can expect to be affected by cancer, and the percentages are on the incline.

Unless you or a loved one has succumbed to cancer, you cannot begin to imagine the devastating pain and anguish that the patient and family all go through. It is so difficult to explain to a child that you don't know why he has to be so sick or why he can't go out and play with the other kids, any more. It's even harder for adults to understand why it happens.

Last summer in a two-to-three-month period when I had a family member in the hospital, from six to eight children were suffering with cancer, most of the cases hopeless. That was in just one hospital. That is too many young lives for Lincoln to be losing. According to 1969 statistics, 3,023 young people under the age of 15 died of cancer in our country.

The time to give to cancer research and solve the problem is before you or a loved one gets the disease. I hope everyone will give as much financially as possible. The American Cancer Society does not participate in the United Fund and so does not receive any of their contributions.

CHERYL NEELY

Long-Term Loss

Lincoln, Neb.

Why are the major scandals of this nation always associated with a Republican administration? Perhaps it is due to the fact that people have certain characteristics. The Republicans have a devotion to power. In the days of the American Revolution, this trait would have put them in the camp of the Royalists.

When Harold Stassen challenged Richard Nixon for the vice presidency, it was an inviolable crime and they washed him out of the party. When Rockefeller challenged the leadership of the party, his workers were intimidated and he was almost not allowed to speak at the convention.

You must have dialogue, you must entertain fresh ideas, you must be flexible in order to have a proper party functioning apparatus. The same is true in government or even business. To resent or be afraid of a challenge is bound eventually to tip in errors and misdeeds. Notable directors were on the board of the Pennsylvania Railroad while it was going down the drain.

If they hadn't sat there like dummies. If they had inquired, probed, challenged, done their duty, much of the calamity would have been headed off at the pass. And, of course, when young people go to work for an organization, they tend to accept the standards and style that the organization imbues them with. So while stamping out contrary or questioning thoughts and ideas has a temporary gain, it will eventually end in a longer-term loss.

How's That?

"Fed Up's" aggravating effervescence of oratorical sonority is not only irrelevant, inconsequential and highly superfluous, but his imbecile eccentricities are irrefutably infelicitous!

HIS NEIGHBOR
RURAL SCHOOL GRADUATE
1974 FARMER

Wouldn't Go Back

Comstock, Neb.

Inflation may have brought farm prices up just for a short time but look at the prices being received for farm products in comparison with what wages the city workers are getting. Minimum wages were okayed by the President as of May 1, to be raised from $1.60 to $2.00. Farm workers now get a minimum of $1.30. They may have to move to the city to get as much as their city cousins.

The prices of farm machinery have gone up drastically, and there are very few smaller farmers left any more. They are being forced off the farms. There were 21 farmers with big families in our school district in 1900; now there are only six. Those who have moved to town say they like it fine, work only five eight-hour days a week and have all kind of time for recreation.

We wouldn't go back on the farm again and work that hard. This $200-a-month rent is reasonable. You don't have to pay real estate taxes, insurance or upkeep on the house.

Most people have common sense, and know that the farmer has to get across the highway to raise food for them. A few minutes doesn't make that much difference to a driver.

There are people in over-populated countries now dying because of food shortages. It could come here, too.

I don't know of any women living on farms being taken to town by their husbands to work. The farmer cannot stay all day in town. If he did, he would go broke. He hasn't that much time to fool away.

I am a retired farmer. I lived in a sod house for 10 years. I kept farm records through my time until I was 65 and quit farming. I also wrote a book, "Career of a Farm Boy" about everything I have seen, worked with and heard from the pioneers and homesteaders.

RETIRED FARMER

Hit A Nerve

Lincoln, Neb.

From the looks of it "Fed Up" really hit a nerve in a lot of farmers and the truth sure hurts, doesn't it? From all the crying about how overworked they are, they sure spent a lot of time writing letters. Fields must be too muddy again and the pool halls closed.

Indispensable? Any business corporation could handle farms and hire these who are complaining as laborers and our food-raising would be six times as efficient and a whole lot cheaper.

Don't sign my name. All my relatives are farmers, too.

FED FED FED UP

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplante

San Francisco — Spring all over the place now. You could bottle the air and sell it. Pull the cork — instant spring.

On the last day of April in 1712, the gossip columnist of The London Spectator had a juicy item:

"The Marchioness of S--- said that though she would promise to be chaste in every month beside she could not engage for herself in May."

Swinging London! But even in those George Georgian days, the columnist blanked out the name of the weak-willed Marchioness.

A bunch of ants came in the house the other night. When I got up they were hard at work trying to pull away the sugar cubes.

Ants are workers, as everybody knows who's read the story of the grasshopper.

The ants gathered wheat. The grasshopper fiddled in the barley fields. When winter came, he had to go down to the Ants' First National, hat in hand. Take out a loan. (In sterner stories, he starved to death but I keep it light.)

A soft-hearted little girl said: "Why couldn't the ants hire him to fiddle for them?"

There's good thinking, Robin.

Spring and time to put on the gay fiddle-and-flute. Checked shirts and sky blue slacks. Carnation in the buttonhole.

Giles de Roufcaud, the knightly crusader, suffered agonies in the Holy Land because his armor did not fit in the seat.

He told the tin tailor: "Sam, you made the pants too long. And look at the droop in the derriere."

The records note his shame as he rode with the bannered armies.

A bad-fitting suit of armor or modern miracle cloth can destroy a man. We carry much pride in the seat of our pants.

The ants in the sugar are ordinary ants. Ants work hard and are not an endangered species no matter how much ant powder we pour on them.

Science has discovered the army ant has been doing the same thing for 60 million years. The army ant walks his post in a military manner. Salutes all officers and can recite the Orders of the Day.

He is a regular but he never makes corporal.

When he is hatched from 3,000 queenly eggs, Nature sends him off to look for a colony recruiting for their army.

If he finds one on the move, they kill him.

If he finds a colony in garrison — not on the move — they sign him up. If there's a war, he fights. When he gets old, they don't muster him out. Old soldier ants don't fade away on a pension. They cut defense costs by killing the blighter.

A gung ho life but a short one.

In these days of mortgages and credit cards, the grasshopper would be a valued customer at the bank.

No need to starve. He could use his instant credit.

"He who borrows sells his freedom," grandma quoted to me. She kept her pin money in a tea pot.

But now if you are not up to your ill-fitting seat of the pants in debt, the banker suspects you. Your lawyer shakes his head. And your accountant thinks you're out of your mind.

Poll: Winter Daylight Saving Unpopular

By LOUIS HARRIS

In the aftermath of the winter-long gasoline crunch, the American people tend to agree that the law making Daylight Saving Time mandatory on a year-round basis was a poor idea. Only 19% rate the daylight saving move as a "good decision," while 43% say it was a "bad decision," and 32% say it was "neither good nor bad."

The major criticism centers on the perceived dangers to children going to school in the dark. Parents report that they became deeply worried over their offspring crossing streets in the early morning hours in darkness, citing numerous cases of children actually hit by cars and even killed.

Old Farmer's Riddle: What does a ship weigh before moving? (Answer below.)

Ask the Old Farmer: I have always been puzzled by the word nightmare, used to describe a bad dream. Any ideas on this? B.W., Ft. Lauderdale.

Nightmare is very ancient, once believed to be a visitation from some kind of fiend — sometimes turning the sleeper into a horse and riding him to exhaustion.

Home Hints: To get all the juice out of lemons, place them in a slow oven and leave them there about 10 minutes. Old pop beads make pretty curtain tie-backs. Riddle answer: Its anchor.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

Forecast For Monday

The most intelligent persons are the easiest to fool. The "signs of intelligence" are said to be Gemini, Libra and Aquarius. True, these persons can be fooled in the magician sense, but they are not so easy to deceive — and there is a difference. Where deception is concerned, the most vulnerable are Cancer, Scorpio and Pisces.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Accent is on money, collections, personal possessions. New Moon position highlights consistency, accounting, awareness of inventory. Second thoughts regarding tax matters also are evident. Review statistics. Aquarius, Leo, Sagittarius persons could figure in important ways.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Get going! Start in new direction with different outlook and project. Emphasis is on personality, how you look and the effect you have on others. Maintain confident air. Be direct, specific. Those who mean the most to you will respond.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Areas previously dark will receive benefit of greater light. Doubts, fears can be erased. Utilize ability to ask and investigate. Take nothing for granted. Another Gemini — and a Virgo — could aid in getting the story behind the story.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) New associations, friendships provide spice to your life. Domestic adjustment is indicated. The way you live is subject to change. You feel more vital as wishes are fulfilled. You also mature and your decisions will move on target to greater extent.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Take a stand. Protect principles. Erase self-doubts. Aim high — one who can pull strings is watching and willing to lend helping hand. Pisces, Virgo persons are featured. Spotlight is on ambition, prestige, achievement promotion.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) New Moon aspect coincides now with travel, study, review of potential. You learn and seek to broaden horizons. Open lines of communication. Become more familiar with language, foreign and your own. Write, read call and correspond.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Lunar position, sacrifices, interdependence, tax, partnership, money proposals. Deal with one who plays cards close to chest. Show admiration for discretion. You will gain added recognition — and you will earn it. Steer clear of persons who talk, talk and do nothing but talk.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) Highlight independence, inventiveness. Start project. Bring forth creative resources. Deal with Leo, Aquarius individuals. Accent is on public relations, partnerships — and marriage. You learn what opposition is thinking and planning to do.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) Use intuition. Trust hunch. Heed inner voice. Learn by teaching. Rise above the petty — show that you understand overall theme, picture. New outlook indicated where employment, fellow workers and health are concerned.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) New Moon position coincides with romance, creativity, dealings with offspring, other young persons. Personal magnetism soars. Popularity quotient is high — you socialize, win friends and influence people. Sagittarius, Gemini persons are likely to be involved.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Emphasis is on rebuilding, planning for structure with solid base. There are restrictions. Recognize them — work around barriers. Pacing is more important than usual. Slow and steady rather than attempts at sensational bursts — that is a winning ticket.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Movement, messages, journeys are apt to be on agenda. Questions and answers are featured. Relatives close neighbors are featured. Your opinions are sought — and received in a variety of ways. There is no area of general agreement, but communication lines are active.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are dynamic, stubborn, somewhat of a visionary, on your own at a comparative early age. June should be your most significant month of 1974. One born under Scorpio has played an important role in your life. You go best in business for yourself. Project begun last year is due to blossom.

The other major misgiving is that while daylight savings was invoked as an energy-saver, people report they used just as much extra heat and electric light in the dark hours of the morning as they believe they saved in the late afternoon. Thus, the rationale for the move lost much credibility with the public.

In late March, a cross section of 1,495 families was asked: "In your opinion, was the decision to go to Daylight Saving Time year-round in order to save fuel a good decision, a bad decision, or neither good nor bad?"

Neither good nor bad	32

The daylight saving move was most resented in the Midwest and South, particularly in the small towns and rural areas, where majorities could be found in opposition. These areas are especially hard hit by two conditions: 1) They contain agricultural communities where many people have to rise early to begin their chores, and they would rather begin work in daylight than in darkness, and 2) Children in these locations tend to have to go longer distances to school, thus increasing the dangers they might face in the early morning darkness.

The Harris Survey found the public highly vocal and opinionated on the Daylight Saving Time issue. For example, a young mother in Nashville, Tenn., said, "I have too little ones, 8 and 6, who had to go to school all winter long in the dark hours. They would hold each other's hands, trembling every morning as they left to walk to school. I've aged 10 years worrying about them." A businessman in Little Rock, Ark., said, "It was just plain foolishness. We all just used more electricity in the morning and less in the afternoon, no gain at all." A mother in Stonington, Conn., reported, "They claimed that we would save energy by not putting lights on early in the evening. But I personally used up more gasoline taking my kids to school in the car every day than I ever could have saved."

The small minority who stood firm in defense of the change to Daylight Saving Time could be found mainly in the big cities in the East and West. The chief benefit they saw was to have an hour at the end of a day in daylight to spend in leisure. A Los Angeles secretary put it this way: "I like daylight saving, because it lets me get my work done early and then have some time in the late afternoon daylight to play tennis, swim, or go shopping. I think it's great." A businessman in Seattle added, "I was able to get in some extra rounds of golf and then also see the kids in daylight for a change during the winter. It was a good deal."

But the heavy weight of public opinion is against year-round Daylight Saving Time, for even those with no strong opinions on the matter mainly felt that it did not succeed in conserving more fuel.

CARMICHAEL

Cosell No Threat

New York (AP) — Sen. James L. Buckley, R-N.Y., says he does not fear a possible challenge to his Senate seat from Howard Cosell, the loquacious sportscaster.

Young Republicans Elect New Officers

Grand Island (AP) — Ray Stevens of Lancaster County was elected chairman of the Nebraska Young Republicans Sunday.

Mike Hughes of Thedford was named vice chairman and also outstanding YR man of the year.

Dorothy Anderson was honored as outstanding YR woman and Chadron State was cited as the outstanding college chapter.

Other new officers include Wayne Boyd of Dakota County, national committeeman; Dianne Desler of Douglas County, national committeewoman; Pat Patitz of Lancaster County, secretary; Lang Anderson of Douglas County, treasurer; Jon Sleeper of Chadron State, college chairman; and Kris Baker, Wayne State, college vice chairman.

Patricia Calhoun of Chadron State was crowned Miss Young Republican.

The group was addressed by Mrs. Pat Smith, national committeewoman from Nebraska, and Idaho Republican Congressman Steven Symms.

Mrs. Smith said that four years ago when she asked for a copy of the party's financial report, she was told that it wasn't done.

"This year we all got copies and I think that's the good fallout of the Watergate storm." She said 83% of the Republican Party's funds are contributed by individuals in denominations of $100 or less.

Symms said he opposed impeachment proceedings against President Nixon. He said if the president's term ended prematurely, it might deprive Ronald Reagan of the chance to become president in 1976.

Nebraska YR Rejects Changes In Board Size

Grand Island (AP) — Nebraska Young Republicans rejected a resolution favoring a constitutional amendment that would enlarge the Nebraska Board of Regents to 15 members.

The resolution also called for a $7,500 annual salary and a six-year term instead of four.

Other resolutions criticized Democratic Gov. J. J. Exon for his "utter disregard of the taxpayers," and opposing gun controls.

The YRs called on the Federal Communication Commission to investigate the national electronic media for its "unbalanced news."

The group also opposed a $50,000 campaign spending limitation by candidates for governor.

1000 Volunteers Help In Auction

Auction, entertainment, fund raising and television will team up three May evenings when the Nebraska ETV network presents a state-wide bid-by-phone auction.

Money raised from the auction, which will take place from 6 to 11 p.m. May 12, 13 and 14, will help finance 13 public television programs and series to be broadcast during the year on Nebraska ETV.

ETV viewers from across the state will be able to bid on merchandise and gift certificates televised during the three-day auction by phoning the Auction, where Nebraska Public Television (NPTV) volunteers will be handling the 20 incoming telephone lines.

In fact several hundred volunteers will be working in the station each evening of the auction, billed as an example of "organized chaos."

And hundreds of additional volunteers are currently collecting from merchants across the state the nearly 1000 items, valued from $25 up, which will be auctioned off. Approximately 1000 volunteers are donating their time and efforts for this unique money raising program.

Those serving on the Auction Advisory Committee are Harold W. Anderson, John Diesing, Benjamin Morris, all of Omaha, Henry Kosman of Scottsbluff, Hal Lanson of Hastings, Mrs. A. B. Sheldon of Lexington, George P. Abel, Bob Devaney, Gov. J. J. Exon, Mrs. Gladys Forsyth, John Olsson and Durward B. Varner, all of Lincoln.

Mrs. Patrick Healey is general chairman of the auction and George Collins is auction coordinator.

Those coordinating volunteer participation include Mrs. Kenneth Bader, Mrs. Jerome Drulner, Mrs. Leonard Goldstein, Mrs. George Hanna, Dr. Richard Hay, Mrs. Cliff Hillegass, Mrs. Frank Morrison, Mrs. Charles Piper and Mrs. Milan Wall.

Mrs. Elliott Sworn In, First Woman Regent

"My daughters were thrilled because they felt it was a compliment to their father, and I did too," Mrs. J. G. Elliott said of her appointment to the University of Nebraska Board of Regents.

Mrs. Elliott was sworn in as the first woman member of the board Friday afternoon at the office of Secretary of State Allan Beerman.

"I'm not too familiar with the technicalities of the board right now, but I'm just pleased to representing my husband," said the wife of the late J. G. (Jack) Elliott of Scottsbluff, who was a 20-year member of the board.

A representative of one-third of the geographical area of Nebraska, Mrs. Elliott indicated that the University of Nebraska has always been a family interest. Mrs. Elliott and her husband graduated from the University, as did their four daughters.

"We now have two granddaughters attending the University with more to come," she said.

Acknowledging that that a goal of the Board is to provide more and more opportunities for the people in the state, she said. "We've got to keep the University open no matter who pays for it."

Mrs. Elliott also commented on the University's acquisition of the Hiram Scott College facilities at Scottsbluff, in which her husband was instrumental. "We have lived in Scottsbluff for 60 years," she explained, "so naturally we were in favor of the Hiram Scott College decision."

dear abby

DEAR ABBY: A 45-year-old woman, looking for a husband, asked you where all the men were, and you told her to go to Alaska.

Please, Abby! We don't need any more women up here. The average age for a woman here is 27, and, except for the military, there aren't any spare men around. We have plenty of drifters, but they're very poor husband material.

Also, you said, "... and if you should get lucky, the nights are six months long." A lot of people didn't know you were kidding. You would have to go way up into the arctic circle to find darkness during the daytime.

Please, do us a favor and set the record straight, and don't send us any more women! Not to Anchorage anyway.

LIVES HERE

DEAR LIVES: For another discouraging word, read this letter from Fairbanks, Alaska:

DEAR ABBY: Please don't start another gold rush in Alaska. We have enough trouble with men (and even whole families) who come here looking for jobs on the Alaskan pipeline.

which hasn't even been started yet.

In the first place, nobody should come to Alaska unless he has a job assured him because unemployment in this state is 10.4 per cent—the highest in the nation. And furthermore, there's an Alaskan law giving job preference to Alaskans.

Another thing people don't know: The cost of living is high in Alaska. A bacon and egg breakfast in a good restaurant costs from $3 to $5, and a good steak dinner costs anywhere from $8 to $15. And if you're looking for cheap housing, forget it.

Abby, do a lot of people a big favor and print this.

YOUR FRIEND IN FAIRBANKS

DEAR FRIEND: That settles it. Don't any of you women go to Alaska in search of a husband, and don't any of you men go there unless you have a job in your pocket!

DEAR ABBY: Le Roy and I have been married for only a year, and already we're having problems. The biggest one is that he is crazy about country and western dancing and I've never even tried it. You have to have the right kind of clothes to dance country and western, and the boots alone cost $65. I don't want to spend that much money on something I might not like.

Le Roy says if I won't go with him, he'll go without me. And he does. I don't like the idea of him dancing and drinking with other girls while I sit home. I don't mind his going out with a bunch of guys, but not for doing things that involve other girls. He thinks I'm being unreasonable.

Do you think I should put my foot down on Le Roy for going dancing without me? And if so, how hard?

JUNE BUG

DEAR JUNE BUG: The place for your foot is not on Le Roy. It's in a Western boot all set to learn how to dance Country and Western. And if you're smart, you'll love it.

DEAR ABBY: My fellow workers and I would like to know the proper name for a niece's husband.

Some say he should be called a "nephew." I feel he should be called a nephew only to be polite.

Webster's dictionary defines nephew as "a son of one's brother or sister," or loosely, as "the son of one's brother-in-law or sister-in-law."

This backs me up, but my friends still introduce the above mentioned as their nephew. Who is correct?

ROAD-RUNNER

DEAR ROAD-RUNNER: Strictly or loosely? Take your pick.

Martin Retirement Triggered Eight Way 3rd District Scrap

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Congressman Dave Martin's decision to vacate his U.S. House of Representatives seat after seven terms has triggered an eight-candidate scrap for the Third District Republican congressional nomination.

The GOP candidates include four aspirants in their 30's, one woman, two state senators, a dentist, a pastor, a professor, an attorney, an insurance agent and a cattleman.

With only two candidates entered on the Democratic ticket — former State Sen. Wayne Ziebarth of Wilcox and Ralph Miller of Wellfleet — the Third District primary election spotlight shines on the Republican derby.

Martin, 66, the dean of Nebraska's House delegation, has represented the sprawling 61-county district since 1961, ousting Democrat Don McGinley after one term in office.

During the ensuing decade and more, the west and central Nebraska district has been surely and safely Republican, even in the 1964 presidential election when Nebraska's other two House districts supported Democratic President Lyndon Johnson.

The Third stuck with Barry Goldwater.

In Martin's final contest in 1972, the Republican congressman won all 61 counties and 70% of the total vote in racking up a 75,229-vote majority.

Mostly Conservative

Most of them have firmly grasped the coattails of Martin's fiscal conservatism, echoing his calls for less government spending and control and more emphasis on private enterprise.

The youngest and the oldest candidates in the race are perhaps the best known in Republican Party circles.

State Sen. Gerald Stromer of Kearney, 31, was chairman of the Nebraska Federation of Young Republicans from 1971 to 1974, and a delegate to the 1972 GOP national convention.

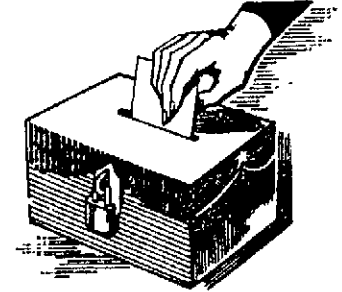

Stromer has served in the Legislature since 1971, and will vacate his seat next January.

Mrs. Haven Smith, 62, a Chappell homemaker, was a delegate to GOP national conventions in 1956 and 1972, and served as chairman of the President's Task Force on Rural Development in 1971-72.

Farm Bureau Director

But she is best known in the district as a 20-year member of the board of directors of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Her state government experience includes membership (1950-60) on the old State Normal Board, which governed state colleges, and on the Governor's Commission on the Status of Women from 1964 to 1968.

J. James Waldron, a 37-year-old attorney who recently moved from Callaway to North Platte, is the other state senator in the contest.

Waldron, a senator since 1967, is also completing his legislative service this year. He is regarded as among the least conservative candidates in the race.

Two Trying Again

Two of the aspirants have been recent unsuccessful Republican primary challengers.

Ronald Blauvelt, 34, a Thedford cattleman, attracted 30,138 votes in the 1972 GOP primary race against Sen. Carl Curtis.

Jack Langford, 51, an assistant professor of political science at Kearney State College, challenged Martin in the 1968 congressional primary contest, picking up 10,262 votes and finishing second in a three-man scrap.

Langford, a retired Navy commander, is a former Republican county chairman and member of the GOP state central committee.

The dentist is 38-year-old Don Blank, the mayor of McCook and a former (1969) president of the Nebraska Jaycees.

The pastor is Gerald Lundby, 50, a Lutheran minister in Hildreth.

And the insurance agent is James Wenger, 51, of Grand Island, who has been involved in community service on the School Board and the Library Board in addition to Republican activities highlighted by a 3½-year reign as county chairman.

4 In Delegate Race

Four of the eight candidates entered the 1972 free-for-all election for Third District delegates to the GOP national convention.

Stromer piled up 18,101 votes while Mrs. Smith won 15,300, both winning election as delegates.

Behind them ran Waldron with 10,478 votes and Langford with 7,278.

All eight candidates listed inflation as one of their priority concerns in response to a recent questionnaire.

Agricultural problems also headed the list of concerns.

Waldron pointed to the need for cost-of-living increases in Social Security payments. Mrs. Smith mentioned foreign policy designed to keep the peace and transportation problems.

Lundby listed election law reforms, including controls over campaign contributions; increased world trade; consumer protection; transportation, and health insurance.

Nate Beezley Group Formed

Nate Beezley, a Republican candidate in the primary election for county surveyor, has announced the formation of a committee working on his behalf.

Chairman of the committee is Harold E. Alexander, 7411 Old Post Rd. Treasurer is Robert G. Hinrichs, 4451 Meredith St.

Beezley also announced his decision not to use yard signs in the campaign because of potential litter and visual pollution problems.

25% Blacks Ordered

New Orleans (AP) — A federal appeals court has imposed "a drastic remedy" on Alabama's Department of Public Safety, ordering that the state highway patrol be made 25% black.

Cancer Drive Will 'Clean Up'

The Nebraska division of the American Cancer Society hopes to reduce the litter along Lancaster County highways as well as help fight cancer in its May 18 "Clean-up for Cancer."

Dan Wherry, special projects chairman for the society, said participants in the clean-up will sign up "sponsors" who are willing to contribute to the Cancer Society for each bottle or can their particular participant picks up.

The participants will then set out May 18 to bring in up to 150 cans and bottles and ten pounds of trash each and return it to the Citizens for Environmental Improvement recycling spot at Lincoln East High School, he said.

Wherry said the clean-up approach to collecting for the Cancer Society is perhaps unique to Nebraska.

"I feel this has more merit than a walkathon because we're really accomplishing something," he said.

"The state spends $250,000 annually to do what we're doing — just picking up litter."

He added, "This may be a way to tap people who wouldn't go collecting for us door-to-door."

The first "Clean-up for Cancer" occurred in March in Johnson County. Wherry said

Clean-ups are also being planned for Douglas and Sarpy Counties on May 18.

He said interested persons can register for the clean-up by stopping by the Cancer Society headquarters at 48th and A Streets or by calling 489-0339.

Schools, youth groups, church groups, service club and environmental groups are also expected to begin registering participants shortly, he said.

Burbach Hits Whelan's Backing

State Sen. Jules Burbach of Crofton said Sunday it is inequitable for Gerald Whelan, the choice of Gov. J. James Exon for lieutenant governor, to have access to the governor's campaign money.

Burbach, who also is a candidate for the lieutenant governorship, said he will spend between $12-$15,000 to get elected.

In an interview Sunday, Burbach said, "If they can raise funds that much more easily by being hatched to the governor, it makes it much more difficult for an individual to go out and explain his interest to the voters of the state."

The Exon-Whelan Committee announced this week it will spend about $25,000 to elect Whelan.

Sen. Burbach returned from a Chicago convention of the Council of State Governments this weekend. At the meeting, he introduced a resolution to control beef imports which was adopted.

"If we import when we have low beef production, it would stabilize beef prices."

He said prices would never reach an extremely high figure nor be subject to great fluctuation.

Burbach said, "Stability in prices for the feeder and the consumer are extremely important."

Sen. Burbach, who is a fertilizer dealer, said he is concerned about the fertilizer price situation. He said he bought nitrogen recently for $125 a ton.

He said three other quotes he received were for $205, $250 and $290 a ton.

Lecturer Claims Crisis Contrived

... Nixon's 'Usurpation' Hit

By JIM DeCAMP
Star Staff Writer

Calling the constitutional crisis of today "contrived," Henry Steele Commager, professor of History at Amherst College, said Sunday night that if it were real it would be the gravest problem in our country's history.

Dr. Commager, who is giving a series of 15 lectures on the American Revolution at the University of Nebraska, cited several areas of conflict between the Constitution and the Nixon administration, stressing the usurpation of power by the executive branch.

He said that obviously Nixon has usurped the power to make war which is specifically relegated to Congress in the Constitution.

The language of the Constitution is "quite clear," Dr. Commager said, and pointed out that the founding fathers were well aware of the power of kings to make war without consulting anyone and specifically provided against that happening in this country.

He said the usurpation of war making power began in the Johnson administration, but moved to an even larger scale under President Nixon.

Dr. Commager said this climaxed with the "undeclared and concealed war against Cambodia."

Nixon not only concealed the war from the Congress, he said, but he concealed it from the American people.

Dr. Commager suggested that this usurpation of war power could be used as an indictment in impeachment proceedings.

Moving to the area of appropriation of moneys, Dr. Commager said that the founding fathers observed the struggle between the House of Commons in England and the royalty in the late 1700's and specifically gave Congress the power to appropriate money.

He said that by his impoundment of funds which have been appropriated by Congress, Nixon is violating the letter and the intent of the Constitution, and added that it may amount to an impeachable offense.

Dr. Commager said he suspects Nixon will back down in this area.

Another area of apparent crisis is the way Nixon "flaunts, ignores and is in defiance of the Bill of Rights," Dr. Commager said.

He said the "Houston Plan" supported by Nixon threatened to turn this country into a police state not unlike Nazi Germany and pointed out that it didn't even have the support of J. Edgar Hoover.

He said the "Houston Plan" supported by Nixon threatened to turn this country into a police state not unlike Nazi Germany and pointed out that it didn't even have the support of J. Edgar Hoover.

Dr. Commager reminded the audience of when 1,200 demonstrators in Washington, D.C., were arrested without warrants or charges and all but 36 were released the next day.

He said Nixon has violated the right of assembly and interfered with the free press, pointing to the administration suit against the New York Times and the Washington Post in the Pentagon papers case.

Dr. Commager called this action an attempt at "prior censorship" and a thing "hateful in the eyes of the founding fathers."

But Dr. Commager said that all this is not a real constitutional crisis because the Constitution is not lacking and does not need to be changed.

Rather it must be seen that the Constitution is obeyed and respected, he said.

Some legislative changes are being made by Congress, he said, adding that future presidents will probably not be able to go so far.

Dr. Commager said he felt the argument that something new is needed doesn't hold water, and pointed out that in the past our country has been able to solve crises without "repudiating the Constitution."

Another more real crisis Dr. Commager addressed himself to is what he called the "political crisis," a crisis which is a threat to the entire democratic process.

He pointed to "the wholesale use of money to influence elections" as the most serious threat.

He said that use of money to obtain an end would simply be a "vulgarity" if it were not connected with the integrity of elections.

"To corrupt that institution (the elections) is to corrupt the democratic process itself," he said.

Presidents have always tried to influence the media, he said, but never before has a president tried so brazenly.

Dr. Commager cited Nixon's use of the Federal Communications Commission and the judicial branch as an attempt to control the media and praised the press and television saying they "stood courageously in the face of that intimidation."

He said the political crisis is more dangerous than Nixon's violation of the Constitution because the dirty tricks of the political crisis have a tendency to linger on, and if they stay with us the "whole of our democratic processes may become a shambles."

After covering the constitutional and political crises, Dr. Commager said our country is in a moral crisis because the majority of the people seem to approve or at least do not object to the dealings of the Nixon administration.

He said the American people have no excuse because Nixon has been known for his dirty tricks throughout his political life.

MISS WHEELER . . . started in 1944.

District Court's Reporter Retiring

... After 30 Years

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

After 30 years and reporting more than 10,000 cases, Lancaster District Court Reporter Audrey Wheeler is retiring from her position and looking forward to no more shorthand notes.

Miss Wheeler, who served as court reporter for the late Lancaster District Judge John Polk and is now serving Lancaster District Judge William Hastings, started her district court reporting on May 1, 1944, and will retire May 1 of this year.

As of last week, she had reported 10,210 cases heard by her judges during those 30 years, but said upon her retirement she plans to complete some bills of exceptions she has. She hopes those will complete her work and indicated she was "sick and tired of shorthand."

Miss Wheeler's career included taking the Darrel Parker statement, the Caril Fugate statements and reporting the hearing for commutation for Charles Starkweather before the State Board of Pardons and Paroles.

She recalls that the only time her shorthand notes were challenged was in a letter to the editor of a local newspaper in which an Omaha writer stated that a court reporter's typed notes showed that Caril Fugate made no request for a lawyer, whereas the same court reporter's shorthand notes indicated Caril did ask for a lawyer.

However, the newspaper followed up on the allegation and reported that there was no discrepancy between the court reporter's shorthand notes and the typewritten transcript of the conversation.

Miss Wheeler also recalls in the well-known Parker case that she took Parker's statement and therefore did not report the case since she was called as a witness in the case. However, she said that since Judge Polk was used to her working with him in preparing the instructions for the jury, she did type the instructions in the case.

This was challenged by the defense counsel, she notes, but the Nebraska Supreme Court held that her being a witness and also writing the instructions was not a misperformance on her part and did not affect the case.

Miss Wheeler said that in all the times she has taken statements from defendants for the county attorney's office, the sheriff, Lincoln Police Department or State Patrol, she had never witnessed any brutality used on anyone to give a statement.

Recalling some of the changes over the years, Miss Wheeler said there has been a substantial increase in the number of bills of exceptions to higher courts to be prepared. She said a great many more cases are appealed now — particularly the number of criminal appeals.

A change which is a great help to court reporters, she said, is the use of audio-visual tapes for medical depositions used in trials.

She said that medical testimony is the most difficult testimony to report because of the unfamiliar terms, but with the use of the tapes it is not a problem.

One of the major problems for court reporters is finding storage space to keep exhibits in cases which remain in the custody of the court until the court permits withdrawal of the exhibits by the parties.

Miss Wheeler said she still has the gun from one murder trial, many knives, bottles of liquor and clothing items which have not been withdrawn.

All of the shorthand notes must also be stored, she points out, adding that the Legislature recently has given the courts permission to destroy the notes in civil matters after ten years but that the notes in criminal matters must be retained forever.

A native of Falls City, Miss Wheeler went to work for the State Banking Department after attending the Lincoln Business College, then worked for a Falls City law firm. Prior to coming to the district court, she served as a reporter for State Railway Commission and the Nebraska Workman's Compensation Court.

She says "one of the most rewarding and pleasant things I have enjoyed in my career is the wonderful friends and acquaintances it has been my privilege to know — not only in law enforcement but in the entire legal profession."

A coffee will be held in her honor April 30 from 2:30 to 4 p.m. in the Courtroom Number One jury room on the third floor of the County-City Building.

Canadians Flee Worst Flood In 50 Years

By United Press International

Rampaging rivers fed by spring thaws and ice jams spilled over sandbagged banks and dikes in Manitoba and Saskatchewan Sunday, forcing massive evacuations and causing widespread damage.

No casualties were reported as a result of the flooding, which has been termed the area's worst in over half a century.

In Moose Jaw, Sask., a city of 35,000, 1500 residents have been evacuated and over 500 homes flooded by the swollen Moose Jaw and Thunder Creeks.

Mayor Herb Taylor estimated three-quarters of the downtown area was under water and set damage at over $3 million. Taylor, describing the flooding as the worst in 60 years, has asked Saskatchewan Premier Alan Blakeney to declare Moose Jaw a disaster area.

Bridge Closed

In Regina, the provincial capital, one of the city's major bridges has been closed. Officials have warned residents in lowlying areas to be prepared to evacuate their homes.

About 20 miles northwest of Regina in Lumsden, the Qu'Appelle River continued to rise despite round-the-clock sandbagging efforts. About 80% of Lumsden's 850 residents have been moved to higher ground, but some have remained in the area to assist in emergency operations.

City officials said they were considering blasting away Lumsden's single bridge to widen the river bed and reduce the water buildup west of town.

In Manitoba, an airlift began Sunday to evacuate more than 700 Indians from two flooded reservations in the northern part of the province.

Helicopter Evacuation

Six armed forces helicopters from Edmonton were flown to the Fisher Branch Reservation and the Peguis Reservation, flooded by the Fisher River.

The refugees are being flown to Hodgson, about 10 miles away, and then bused to an emergency camp at Gimli, 35 miles south, where they will be accommodated in old army barracks.

"They could be here for weeks," said one of the Gimli officials co-ordinating the evacuation.

Only slight flooding was reported in Winnipeg, but 40 miles southwest in Carmen a 420-bed hospital has been evacuated and a dike built around the downtown area.

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Iraqi President Ahmed Hassan el-Bakr made a fresh bid Sunday to overcome the Kurdish rebellion by appointing a 5-1 known Kurd as a vice president.

News of the appointment was carried by the Iraqi news agency from Baghdad.

Ford Urges Grass Roots Campaign In November

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — Vice President Gerald Ford has set out a battle plan for Republicans in the 1974 Congressional elections that includes a role for President Nixon.

In a series of California appearances during the past week, Ford tried to pump enthusiasm into GOP grass roots workers, telling them to stop wringing their hands over Watergate and fight back.

Ford wound up his eight-day working vacation Sunday and planned to return to Washington late in the evening.

His words were cautious. He didn't talk in terms of trying to maintain the current ratio in the House, much less of winning control.

What's at stake in 1974, he said, is to avert a landslide that would give the Democrats "a stranglehold" on government and threaten the two-party system.

His primer for 1974 as spelled out at the state Republican convention Saturday is based on a return to fundamental GOP politics at the precinct level.

It involves rolling up sleeves, ringing doorbells, organizing meetings and standing at factory gates, said the 60-year-old veteran of 13 congressional campaigns of his won in Michigan.

"The Democrats have announced their intention to turn the coming November election into a national referendum on President Nixon," Ford said in a luncheon address.

He said, "The issue is not RMN (Nixon's initials) but is as simple as ABC."

The ABC stands for basic politics run by Republicans as a party as contrasted to the "trickery" of the 1972 Committee to Re-elect the President "or any other CREEPs who are looking for an easy, unethical or illegal road to victory," he said.

At San Jose, and earlier in the week at Palm Springs and Monterey, Ford offered Republicans these selling points: —Go on the offensive with Nixon's foreign policy record. "In this area, I don't think there's been a better President in this area than Dick Nixon," he told a fundraising dinner in Monterey for Congressman Burt L. Talcott, one of several California Republicans who faces a tough re-election fight.

—Promote those domestic issues where Nixon has done well, such as promoting the New Federalism and revenue sharing.

—Attack the Democratic-controlled Congress for the "minuses" on the domestic scorecard, such as failure to pass 16 of Nixon's 17 energy proposals.

—Use the President for "selective" campaigns in Congressional districts. Ford contended Nixon was an asset to the GOP candidate in last Tuesday's Michigan election even though the Republican lost.

—When Watergate comes up, tell the doubters or doomsayers that Republican congressmen and senators had nothing to do with it.

Iowa Candidate Won't Disclose His Finances

Clear Lake, Iowa (UPI) — An Iowa State Senator running for the United States Senate says he will not disclose his personal finances because it would invade his right to privacy.

State Senator George Milligan, Des Moines banker, told a Third Congressional District GOP workshop here this weekend that "it's wrong" to release personal financial statements.

Milligan's opponent for the GOP nomination, Rep. David Stanley of Muscatine, told 25 north central Iowa Republicans disclosures are an "absolute necessity."

Milligan replied, "It's as wrong as can be" to disclose personal finances. He vowed he "will not do something wrong to get to the U.S. Senate."

Inauguration Set At Peru College

Peru (UPI) — Peru State College this week will hold its first formal inauguration in its 107 year history.

The inauguration Saturday of Peru State's 20th president, Dr. Douglas W. Pearson, will cap a week long PSU spring week and inauguration slate of events.

Spring week activity began Sunday with a road rally and dance. Pre-inaugural events begin Thursday with an awards convocation and the planting of the 101st oak tree on the campus by Dr. and Mrs. Pearson.

The Pearsons gave the red oak to the college, which is known as the "campus of a thousand oaks."

NETV Group Plans Meeting

The commissioners will also be briefed on the status of the national public television program cooperative plan and they will hear a report from Nebraskans for Public Television Inc., concerning Auction 74 and its forthcoming annual meeting.

Sen. Hubert Humphrey

Humphrey Demands Tax Cuts

Washington (AP) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., added his voice Sunday to the burgeoning push for a tax cut to help ease the toll of a faltering economy on low and middle-income families.

Declaring "we are in the midst of a recession," Humphrey called also for creation of new public service jobs for the unemployed and reform of the wage-price control system.

Humphrey, chairman of the Joint Economic Committee, issued his statement on the heels of similar declarations by Democratic Sens. Edward M. Kennedy and Walter F. Mondale. They proposed on Saturday a reduction in taxes of $5.9 billion, primarily by increasing the personal exemption to $825 from the present $750.

The latest government figures show that inflation is now running at more than 10 per cent annually. Consumer prices soared at a 14.5 per cent annual clip for the first three months this year.

These figures, said Humphrey, "confirm that the glowing State of the Union rhetoric about 'no recession' and 'reduced inflation' was simply the empty promises of a beleaguered President."

"In all my years in government," said Humphrey, "it is hard to remember a failure of leadership any more glaring than the failure of this administration to develop effective policies to deal with inflation."

Ex-Teacher, Mrs. Burnham, Dies At Age 82

Cecilia H. Burnham, 2211 Harrison, a retired teacher who was active in Lincoln civic organizations, died Sunday. She was the widow of Archer L. Burnham, former executive secretary emeritus of the Nebraska State Education Association.

Mrs. Burnham, 82, was the former vice-president of the YWCA and was past president of the Lincoln chapter of the American Association of University Women, the Tuesday Review, Chapter BY of the PEO and the women's society of Westminster Presbyterian Church. She was also a member of the Order of the Eastern Star of Beatrice.

She was graduated from Peru State College and the University of Nebraska.

Survivors include a daughter, Mrs. Elmer (Gretchen) Sprague, Brooklyn, N.Y., and four grandchildren.

Lopez Takes Big Lead In Colombian Balloting

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — Alfonso Lopez Michelsen, the left-of-center Liberal party candidate, appeared on his way to victory Sunday night in Colombia's five-way presidential race.

In early unofficial returns, Lopez, a 60-year-old attorney and former foreign minister, held a commanding 2-1 lead over his closest rival, Alvaro Gomez Hurtado, who represented the ruling Conservative party.

With only 4.7 per cent of the expected vote counted, Lopez had 131,277 votes against 71,410 for Gomez. Maria Eugenia Rojas de Moreno, Latin America's first woman presidential candidate, representing the populist Anapo party, was a distant third with 25,205.

Although only a small percentage of the votes have been counted, Lopez' Liberal party supporters were already celebrating victory. Officials said about half of Colombia's 10 million voters were expected to have cast ballots.

Royal Neighbors Choose Delegates

Delegates to the Supreme Camp of the Royal Neighbors of America were chosen at the 28th Nebraska Camp meeting in North Platte Friday and Saturday.

Elected to represent District #1, comprising 14 counties in extreme southeastern Nebraska, was Vesta Urwin, Louisville, delegate and Dottie George, Lincoln, alternate.

The Supreme Camp will be in Seattle June 23.

Boy, 12, Injured In Cycle Crash

Danny Burt, 12, of 5105 Glade, was taken to Bryan Memorial Hospital with a broken shoulder and multiple bruises after a motorcycle accident in a wooded area about two blocks south of Brant and South Sts. Sunday night.

Police said the boy was riding his motorcycle through a gully and struck a tree.

Cause Is Guessed

Washington (UPI) — Rep. Bob Traxler, D-Mich., says he thinks most people in the district which elected him to Congress last week wanted President Nixon impeached, but he would wait to review the evidence before making up his mind.

Cowboys Seek To End Raids

DALLAS (UPI) — The Dallas Cowboys have joined the Cincinnati Bengals in carrying the National Football League's legal fight against the World Football League. But the Cowboys have chosen a different route.

Having had three of their players bolt from the corral, the Cowboys have decided to try to lock the barn door.

In a decision handed down early Sunday, a state district judge ruled the WFL cannot sign any other Dallas players to contracts and forbid the three Cowboy players who have signed WFL pacts from recruiting any of their teammates to the new league.

Running backs Calvin Hill and Mike Montgomery along with quarterback Craig Morton have jumped to the WFL from the Cowboy roster. Montgomery's defection came only last Saturday and in so doing he blasted what he termed "Cowboy regimentation."

The court order won by the Cowboys does not forbid the three players who have already signed WFL contracts from fulfilling their WFL obligations. It is simply an attempt to stop further defections.

Last week the Cincinnati Bengals won a court order forbidding linebacker Bill Bergey from playing in the WFL.

In the ruling handed down by Texas District Judge Ted Akin, Hill and Morton are specifically named as being prevented from "entering into any contact (with Dallas players) until any current contract between those players and the Cowboys is terminated."

Montgomery's signing had not been made public until after the order was issued.

The order also forbids Morton or Hill from promoting "with pictures or stories the WFL and the Houston (Morton) and Hawaii (Hill) teams of that league or inducing any Cowboy players to enter into any contractual agreement with the WFL."

The temporary restraining order ends April 30, at which time a hearing will be held to determine if the order shall be made permanent.

A source close to the Dallas team said that for fear of further defections the Cowboys felt they had to take some preventive legal action.

"They just felt they had had enough of it and that it was time they did something about it," the spokesman said.

Montgomery, who signed with the Birmingham franchise of the new league, said he was ready to leave Dallas because he felt he did not fit in with the team's system.

"I'm not really knocking Dallas," Montgomery said. "They have been a winner for a long time and have a good organization — probably the best in pro football. But it's not my style of football."

Former Husker Powell Arrested

ATLANTA (AP) — Ralph Powell, a 23-year-old former running back from the University of Nebraska, was released Saturday after being charged with drug violations and indecent exposure. Atlanta police said.

Powell was arrested Monday night after security guards at a downtown Atlanta hotel observed him running nude through the halls knocking on doors, police said.

Powell was in Atlanta for an orientation session with the Atlanta Falcons, who drafted him in the 13th round of the National Football League draft.

Omaha Drops, 9-5

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Roger Freed slammed a bases loaded home run and a bases loaded single, driving in six runs, as the Indianapolis Indians topped Omaha's Royals, 9-5, in American Association baseball Sunday.

Freed's four-bagger cleared the bases in the first inning. He gave the Indians the winning margin with a two-run scoring single in the fourth, all off losing pitcher Dennis Leonard, 0-2.

Spaghetti Better Than Steak?

San Diego (AP) — Maybe Mary Decker, the spaghetti gobbling 15-year-old track star, knows what she's doing.

A medical specialist said

Friday that athletes who need energy and stamina should eat spaghetti or other starchy foods before competition instead of the traditional steak.

"The idea that an athlete needs a lot of protein in his diet to perform well is absolutely false," Dr. Robert E. Hodges, a professor of medicine at the University of California at Davis, told a conference on physical fitness and sports medicine.

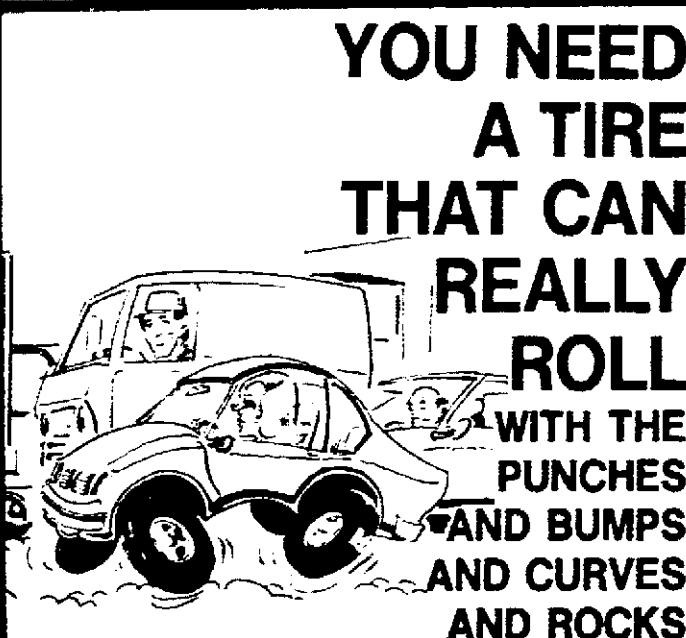

He said protein maintains and repairs body tissue but ranks far below the starchy carbohydrates as energy food.

The athlete's ideal diet for several days before competition, Hodges said, is 55 per cent carbohydrates, 33 per cent fat and 12 per cent protein.

Japan To Make Loan To Soviets

Tokyo — Japan agreed tentatively to lend the Soviet Union $1 billion at relatively low interest to finance three projects involving the development of coal, gas and timber resources in Siberia. The deal would pour Japanese funds into the extraction of coal and gas resources and the felling of timber from the forests of far eastern Siberia. Japan, which is poor in natural resources, would share in some of the output.

Dean Rebutts Stans' Word

New York (UPI) — Former White House counsel John W. Dean III. recalled to the stand as the Mitchell-Stans conspiracy trial neared its end, Monday flatly contradicted testimony by onetime Nixon Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans.

Appearing as a prosecution rebuttal witness, Dean testified that he never told Stans there was no obligation to reveal to federal investigators a secret $200,000 cash contribution to the 1972 Nixon re-election campaign.

It was Dean's third appearance before the U.S. District Court jury.

Both the prosecution and defense rested Monday afternoon. U.S. District Judge Lee P. Gagliardi told the jury. "The case will be submitted to you probably Wednesday afternoon."

The jurors must deliberate on charges of conspiracy, obstruction of justice and perjury against Stans and former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell.

Both defendants are accused of conspiring to block a Securities and Exchange Commission investigation of financier Robert L. Vesco, now a fugitive from U.S. justice, in exchange for the $200,000 campaign contribution and of lying to a grand jury about it. They had resigned their Cabinet posts to run Nixon's campaign when the alleged wrongdoing occurred.

Under cross-examination by Assistant U.S. Atty. John R. Wing, Dean denied two instances in which Stans testified Dean had advised him he did not need to volunteer information about the gift.

Stans had testified that he phoned Dean Nov. 13, 1972, and told him he had talked with former Lincolnite G. Bradford Cook, then SEC general counsel. Cook had told him, he said, about learning that Vesco had transferred $250,000 from the Bahamas to the United States and had "had siphoned off $50,000" of it.

Stans said he told Dean "I did not volunteer anything to Brad" about the $200,000 gift.

He testified that Dean told him at that time that "there isn't any obligation on you to tell Cook" and that the SEC "should make a more formal request."

Dean testified Monday: "I have no recollection of that conversation."

Stans also had testified that during an airplane flight from Washington to New York with Dean he again asked whether he was obligated to reveal the $200,000 to the SEC and that Dean had said "no."

"Did you have that conversation?" Wing asked Dean.

"No, I did not."

Golan Clashes Continue

Artillery fired along the Syrian-Israeli front and on strategic Mt. Hermon on Monday, while Egyptian President Anwar Sadat sought ties with Europe and praised American peace efforts in the Middle East.

Israeli forces claimed full control of disputed Mt. Hermon amid artillery and long-distance tank battles raging for the 42nd day on the Golan Heights front.

Syrian MIG jets penetrated into the October war bulge during the fighting, the Israeli military command admitted, but a spokesman denied Arab claims that the Syrians and Israelis were still struggling for control of the strategic mountaintop.

"We are sitting on it and we are controlling it," the command spokesman said.

The Israelis have built a zigzag road to the 9,200-foot summit and television pictures have shown Jewish troops posted in caves and sandbagged dugouts on the snowy summit. Israeli tanks also were perched on the top.

Judiciary Committee Asks More Tapes

Washington — The House Judiciary Committee, in a new test of White House cooperation with the impeachment inquiry, has asked President Nixon for a number of tape recordings and documents dealing with Watergate and with alleged political influence in government antitrust and milk-price support decisions. Well-placed sources said that the committee's new request was sent to the White House after its April 11 vote to subpoena tape recordings of some 42 Watergate-related conversations involving the President and former key aides.

Jackson Says Nixon Imperils Security Of U.S.

Washington (AP)—Sen. Henry M. Jackson accused the Nixon administration Monday of endangering U.S. security by seeking "a quick cosmetic agreement" with Russia on nuclear arms limitations.

At the same time, Jackson, D-Wash., urged the administration to propose a sharp reduction on both sides toward a common U.S.-Russian weapons ceiling instead of extending a temporary limitation agreement which gives Russia the edge.

Such a proposal, he said, "will test uncertain Soviet intentions" concerning the U.S.-Russian arms balance—whether Russia wants a live-and-let-live stability or superiority over this country.

Energy Chief Defends Higher Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — John C. Sawhill, the new federal energy chief, defended the higher fuel prices that have settled in around the country and indicated Monday they would pay off in increased supplies.

"Prices higher than in years past and substantial but reasonable profits are seen to be vital to our future well-being," he told the Senate Commerce Committee. "Where price elicits

The case is expected to go to the jury Wednesday night. (More on Page 2.)

VA Director Dismissed

Washington — The White House, bowing to the demands of Congress and veterans' lobbies, informed Donald E. Johnson, the embattled head of the Veterans Administration, that he has been dismissed, according to well-informed sources. (More on Page 1.)

Insurers Underpaid Hospitals

New York — A State Supreme Court justice ruled that Medicaid and Blue Cross of Greater New York underpaid hospitals by millions of dollars in 1973 and ordered the insurers to make up the difference. A Blue Cross official here said the decision might cost his organization as much as $15 million to $20 million and would probably result in a request for higher premiums for subscribers.

Ex-DA Gets Six-Month Term

New York — Thomas J. MacKell, the former Queens district attorney, was sentenced to six months in prison for blocking the prosecution of a confidence racket in which members of his staff invested money. MacKell's co-defendants, James D. Robertson, his son-in-law and former deputy chief assistant attorney, and Frank DePaola, a former county detective, also received six-month sentences.

Nixon Planning Tapes Response

Washington (UPI) — President Nixon, facing a Thursday deadline, spent much of his time Monday in consultation with his lawyers and aides to decide on a response to the unprecedented Congressional subpoena for his Watergate tapes.

Meanwhile, the senior Republican member of the House Judiciary Committee, Rep. Edward Hutchinson of Michigan, disclosed the impeachment inquiry panel has prepared another request for White House material in addition to that already demanded in the subpoena.

Hutchinson did not say whether the new request had been delivered to the White House, what it contained or what aspect of the impeachment investigation it related to.

Discussing Nixon's strategy session with his counsel, White House spokesmen said it was the second consecutive day of meetings in which Nixon had shared his thoughts but made no final decision about the subpoena.

Deputy press secretary Gerald L. Warren pictured Nixon as having alternated over the past few days between cruises in solitude on the Potomac and a flurry of Watergate meetings.

Bull Market For Inflation

WASHINGTON — Those who think that the current rate of inflation is unacceptable had better brace themselves for worse to come. The Phase IV program of federal wage and price controls will be phased out for good on April 30, and the next day will bring a 25% increase in the federally mandated minimum wage. Both developments are bound to have inflationary consequences.

On the subject of controls, the Nixon administration has been a house divided. Outgoing Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz recently told Hobart Rowen of The Washington Post that he "didn't agree at all" with Phase IV, and submitted his resignation shortly after it was announced. President Nixon prevailed upon Shultz to stay on the job, but now he finally is stepping down in favor of federal energy chief William E. Simon.

The administration's position was that most controls should be allowed to expire on April 30 along with the Economic Stabilization Act that authorized them. However, it sought extension of the Cost of Living Council (CLC) as a monitoring agency and continuation of controls over the construction and health-care industries. But the Senate and House banking committees refused to go along.

John T. Dunlop, the CLC chairman, believes Congress made a mistake. "In my judgment," he told U. S. News & World Report, "controls have had favorable effects on wages and prices for health care and construction. It is only in those two areas — aside from petroleum, which is covered by another law — that the administration has sought authority from Congress to continue controls.

"I think it is demonstrable that in those two areas, the absence of controls will lead to appreciably more serious inflation than we've had."

The forthcoming increase in the price of steel products will have wide ramifications throughout most American industries, construction and health care included. The United Steelworkers of America and the major steel companies agreed April 12 on a new three-year contract that will raise total labor costs by approximately $3.25 an hour per worker. "Most companies won't divulge their post-April 30 price plans," The Wall Street Journal reported. "But even before the labor pact was reached. . . Allegheny Ludlum Industries Inc.'s steel-making unit had already disclosed that it expects cost increases totaling 18% in the six months ending July 31.

"Thus, company officials say it would take a 25% to 28% price increase to get the company's return on sales back to 6%."

The inflationary effect of the increased minimum wage is more difficult to gauge, but it no doubt will be substantial. The current rate of $1.60 an hour will go to $2 on May 1, to $2.10 on Jan. 1, 1975, and to $2.30 on Jan. 1, 1976. In addition, between seven and eight million Americans never before covered by the minimum wage law will now be protected. The law also will extend provisions requiring payment of overtime in excess of 40 hours a week to eight million workers not now covered — those employed in hotels, restaurants, nursing homes, bowling alleys, and so on.

These establishments, like the steel industry, will try to recoup their increased labor costs through higher prices. Before long, the new minimum wage will have a purchasing power not much better — and maybe worse — than the present one.

The Standby Corps: Reward For Fatcats

WASHINGTON — The White House has secretly appointed wealthy campaign contributors to the standby corps, which would help run the country in case of war.

The fatcats, selected more for their political generosity than their executive ability, have been forced upon a reluctant National Defense Executive Reserve.

This is an elite reserve outfit of 3,600 private executives, who would immediately step into top defense jobs in 19 federal agencies if war should break out. The White House tried to line up the most prestigious jobs for business executives who had contributed heavily to President Nixon's 1972 campaign. Or, as a confidential White House memo put it, there is "considerable potential opportunity to reward deserving Nixon executives with an NDER appointment."

The memo, addressed to presidential assistant Dan Kinsley, stated that the Office of Emergency Preparedness was quite willing to accept the campaign donors. Both the director, George Lincoln, and his deputy, Darrell Trent, "concur and are ready to start," declared the memo.

There was hesitation, however, from OEP official Margaret Cates who insisted on choosing qualified executives. The White House memo implied cautiously that pressure could be brought on her.

"Although not a political appointee, Mrs. Cates appears loyal and is under the direction of Darrell Trent," said the memo. The implication was Trent could get her to comply.

The memo directed that the Nixon contributors "must be placed in a unit, unless their qualifications just don't meet the necessary requirements."

The only cautionary note appears to have been scrawled on the memo by Bill Horton, an aide to then White House personnel czar Fred Malek.

"Are these positions sufficiently prestigious so that the candidates feel recognized?" asks the note. Apparently the answer was affirmative, for Mrs. Cates shortly got about 100 Nixon campaign contributors to place.

She thinks she accepted about 20, the most qualified of the Nixon appointees, for the program, she told us. The White House referrals are still coming in, she added. She also pointed out that the jobs are non-paying.

Much to the embarrassment of Vice President Gerald Ford, the favorite parlor game within President Nixon's official family is to speculate whom the survivors will be if Ford moves up to the presidency.

Ford has ordered his aides and pleaded with his friends, please, to stop the guessing games. He doesn't want to appear to be crowding the President as Mr. Nixon gets closer to an impeachment vote in the House.

Still, the speculation goes on. One powerful cabinet member, who for obvious reasons doesn't want to be identified, told us he has already decided upon his own course in case Ford replaces Nixon in the White House.

The cabinet officer will deliver a letter of resignation to President Ford and will urge the new President to accept the resignation of everyone in the White House and cabinet.

A clean sweep is essential, he told us forcefully, to restore public confidence in the government.

Name Lag Threatens Whelan

The dimensions of the problem facing Gov. Jim Exon in attaching Gerald Whelan's name to the ticket Democrats will offer Nebraska voters in November was illustrated in a public opinion poll published in last Sunday's Journal and Star paper.

The SRI Community Response poll taken at the end of March and the first part of April shows that Democrats apparently favor Sen. Terry Carpenter in the contest for the party's lieutenant governor nomination. One of Nebraska's best-known political figures, Carpenter has a margin of almost 3-2 over Sen. Jules Burbach, another well-known Democrat, and he leads Whelan, Exon's preferred running-mate for the general election, by almost 2-1. Sen. Frank Lewis of Bellevue and Omaha James LaHood, who was killed in an auto accident last weekend, trailed in the sampling.

The name recognition factor, which has thrust Carpenter and Burbach to the forefront, was of course taken into account in the Exon-Whelan game plan. The fact that Hastings attorney Whelan, while exceptionally qualified for the post, does not have the statewide name recognition enjoyed by the two leading legislators, has prompted a mass media advertising push in the last three weeks of the primary campaign aimed at associating Whelan with Exon.

The poll has helped to substantiate the name recognition lag. The name of the game Exon and Whelan must play, and they've known it all along, is catch-up. And with a large percentage of Nebraska Democrats apparently undecided on their preference of a lieutenant governor candidate, conditions are favorable for the Exon-Whelan team to close the gap.

Nebraska Democrats during these final weeks of the primary campaign should consider the opportunity they have to help shape their party — which is on the verge of political party in this state — for the future. By placing a young, highly competent figure such as Whelan on the ballot with Exon, Nebraska Democrats would be strengthening their party and offering the statewide electorate a strong administrative team they can be proud of.

Percy, Richardson Look To '76

Not content to wallow in Watergate or waste time worrying about the possibility of a "legislative tyranny" which some thing would be imposed on the United States if the Democrats sweep the congressional elections this autumn, a couple of moderate Republicans are concentrating their attention on the presidential election of 1976.

Actually, Sen. Charles Percy of Illinois is into it in a big way. Percy, who must somehow overcome the hostility of President Nixon and die-hard Nixon supporters if he is to come close to the Republican nomination, has just recently announced the details of a strategy which he hopes will gain him the nomination — at a cost of $11-12 million.

And Elliott Richardson, the athletic former attorney general, secretary of Defense and secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, who is almost as famous for his knack of doodling and shooting baskets with scrap paper, has declared enthusiastically that he will accept if nominated and serve if elected.

Both realize — and Percy has flatly stated — that a Republican moderate must start early if he has any hopes of winning the nomination.

What should be of comfort to Republicans is that Percy and Richardson are two party members who look optimistically to the future and are not inclined to write off the party, as some columnists and doomsmongers are now doing, because of the President's troubles.

Although, it remains to be seen whether Percy can dissolve the latent hostility that Republican delegates always hold for moderates and whether anybody in 1976 will remember those dark days in October, 1973, which flung Richardson full force upon the public stage.

TOM WICKER

Texas Highway Campaign

LAMESA, Tex. — "It's good to drive down the highways, rather than flying in and flying out," Mrs. Frances Farenthold told about 50 Democrats gathered in the "Community Room" on the second floor of the Lamesa National Bank.

This was intended as a dig at Gov. Dolph Briscoe, the millionaire rancher Mrs. Farenthold is trying to defeat in the Democratic primary May 4; he has been flying around the state in his private plane and is not well known for answering questions.

But as she said it, Mrs. Farenthold was tired from a week of highway campaigning in west Texas, and a little dusty from the sand blowing across the fields and roads of the high plains country. The experience had given her, she said, a greater "opportunity of seeing" this vast state and its people and to learn something of their concerns at first hand.

That side of campaigning is all too often forgotten in the modern emphasis on news conferences, airport stops, set piece rallies and media razzle dazzle. "Our media campaign is bumperstickers," Mrs. Farenthold told a crowd of 150 on the courthouse lawn at Post, and she was careful to explain that she had come out to this remote region "in a greyhound bus." Personal campaigning is particularly important in a state like Texas, with its diversity of skyscraper cities, endless plains, small farms, vast ranches, sun-baked towns. It's a long way from the grandiosity of the new Dallas Fort Worth Airport to Lamesa or Brownfield, in Terry County, where Slick Collins runs the men's clothing store and says you have to drive 150 miles west before you get another chance to buy a shirt.

Out here, the yellow sand blowing across the road, banked against farm buildings and working its way grittily through closed auto windows and doors, makes something abstract called "the water problem" as real as dirt in your eye. The high plains were once a sea of grass, cattle country, but the plow and irrigation turned the area into an expanse of cotton and grain fields — some of the richest farmland in the world — as long as the water holds out.

But the rainfall is slight — spring rains are due any time now, to settle the dust and ready the land for planting — and the water table is low. A major issue Mrs. Farenthold has had to meet out here is popular demand for something called the Texas water plan — a scheme for the importation of water in canals from Louisiana and Arkansas all the way to the cotton fields of west Texas.

Mrs. Farenthold regards this as impractical and unwise, a promise by cynical politicians who have no hope of delivering, and says so forthrightly. All too often, she says, Texans have seen "hope translated into promises and nothing except promises." Her emphasis is on water management and conservation and new technology, but that may not be good enough for waterhungry west Texans. Water is such a perennial problem here that C. W. Post, the breakfast food king who bought up 225,000 acres of land in 1906 and founded Post as a sort of model community, used to send loads of dynamite aloft on kites and set them off in an effort to make rain.

On the other hand, Mrs. Farenthold's candor may be something of an asset, in the post-Watergate atmosphere. "Just seems like a lot of people get away with a lot of things that they shouldn't," a young housewife told her in Lamesa. Mrs. Farenthold replied with a critique of the Texas legislature, in which she served two instructive terms, and everywhere she speaks she campaigns against "private government" and for an open political process —

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

To Your Good Health

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please give me some information on vitamin E. What is it good for? What is it made of? On the market it looks like oil in a capsule. Little is heard of vitamin E. — Mrs. A. M.

Vitamin E — according to various of its boosters — is supposed to clean out the arteries, increase sex vigor, prevent cancer, remove scars, heal burns, strengthen muscles and a list of other things as long as your arm.

You'd think, at our present state of sophistication, people would be highly suspicious of anything that is touted as being "good for what ails you," but this doesn't seem to apply to vitamin E. People (including those who sell it) simply insist that it's "good for you."

This is in the face of the fact that scientific studies do not support these claims, and the clamor reaches such a stage that the National Research Council of the National Academy of Sciences not long ago issued a statement saying so.

Some of the claims, it added, were based on such experiments as depriving laboratory animals of Vitamin E totally, and long enough to bring harmful results. In humans, the report pointed out, vitamin E is so widely available in ordinary foods (particularly vegetable oils, cereal grains and animal fats) there is scant chance of anyone's not getting all he needs or can use.

How much effect this statement will have on the tons of Vitamin E sold every year remains to be seen. If people persist in buying it, at least there is no visible harm — with one important exception: If anyone tries to cure whatever he has with Vitamin E to the exclusion of obtaining proved treatment, the end result can be letting dangerous or painful illnesses get out of hand.

But what a lot of hospitals or clinics we could build with the money being spent on Vitamin E!

The council did not deny that Vitamin E has its uses, but found that it need be taken by mouth only in special cases, such as with premature babies or patients who are unable to absorb fats in their food. There aren't many of them.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My son is 65 and his doctor has diagnosed his disease as hardening of the arteries, or atherosclerosis. He does not seem to feel this is really his condition. He has a roaring sound in his head and ears and this causes him to be unable to sleep. Do you agree with this diagnosis? — Mrs. J. H.

I see no reason not to agree with it, and do not see why your son disagrees with it. I dare say that his doctor has detected signs in addition to the roaring noise, however.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it safe to eat soup, cold, right out of the can? Or does it have to be brought to a boil like it says on the can? — R. P. B.

Safe if you like cold soup, but most soups are tastier when hot, and a good many canned soups are easier to eat when thinned with water or milk. But there are, you'll notice, some soups quite commonly eaten cold, such as a jellied consommé.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Last night I heard about a doctor in Mexico who has helped arthritis patients and was wondering if you would tell me something about it. It is some kind of medicine that cannot be purchased in the United States. Can't imagine if his treatment is so wonderful why it isn't used by

Tide Has Turned

Lincoln, Neb.

Ask any modern man to describe what he believes to be the best environment for people and he will mention among other things, trees, flowers, the open country, etc. He might even mention farming. Most thinking people appreciate the wide open spaces. They may even have a longing for them. But we are creatures of habit. We would rather suffer where we are than try to change our lives. We do, however, live in a mobile society. We move from place to place readily but we find that our troubles have followed us.

With so many people admitting a love for the out-of-doors, the wide open spaces, the little place in the country, why are our cities jammed with people? We are all familiar with the attractions of the city. Basically, people come to the city to get a job. The challenge to succeed in the city-oriented game of life draws them. The person who had ambition found himself in the city. Who was left on the farm? For the most part, they are the people who are a little quieter, a little slower, a little less likely to jump up and run off to some new adventure. They are the farmers, the backbone of the nation. City folks have, until recently, thought of them as a bit comical. As time passes, they are becoming enviable. With envy may come hate. Look out, farmers. The tide has turned.

'Net' Results

Hartington, Neb.

"Fed Up" of Hallam is more to be pitied than censured. We'll class him in — "Father, forgive them for they know not what they do (or say, or write)."

Perhaps we as farmers have been negligent in informing folks what labor and costs are really involved to produce food and fiber.

The public can comprehend what prices our livestock could bring at the market. The prices are heard over TV, radio and are quoted in the newspapers. What they cannot realize is the labor, feeding costs, vet charges, housing, interest on loans, assessment, taxes and sometimes death losses. This is NOT common knowledge to the consumer. It's the "net" that is important.

Nixon was wrong when he said: "The farmer never had it so good."

All Nebraskans

Weeping Water, Neb.

I can't believe a fellow Nebraskan can be so unaware of the farmer's side. A New Yorker or Californian, maybe, but not a Nebraskan!

I hope we as farmers are not as unconcerned about our non-farming neighbors.

Much of the so-called complaining is apprehension. Mother Nature decides whether we have a paycheck or not. No matter how well we do our work, she has the last word.

We aren't a bit ashamed of the higher prices. They are long overdue as we have had no cost-of-living raise for a long time. However, this is gone with the higher cost of our expenses.

We love the farm and evidently many think it is the good life because people are growing closer every day. Let's love and understand each other and be united Nebraskans. We need each other.

CONCERNED FARM WIFE

the medical profession in this country. The doctor's name is . . . —Mrs. C.H.

There are not, to the best of my knowledge, any such medications being used in Mexico that are not known here; but what is also known here is that the medications (powerful hormones, largely) bring such dramatic results only by using them in such quantities that, in a given length of time, they begin to have intolerable side effects.

The advantage of the Mexican "wonder workers" is that the patients feel better and go home and tell everybody else about what a wonderful treatment it is.

But when the consequences develop, it's the doctor back home who is saddled with taking over treatment. By that time the patient is in no condition to go back to Mexico — and wouldn't be welcomed at that stage of the game anyway.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My son at age 11 fell out of a tree and broke his jaw. They did not have to do any surgery but they took at least 20 x-rays in one evening. I became upset and refused to let them take any more. That was five years ago and his jaw hasn't given him any trouble, but every time I read an article about excessive x-ray being harmful, I wonder if he could suffer any ill effects now or at later times and what would be the symptoms? — Mrs. D. S.

The 20 x-rays might have totalled an exposure of about two seconds, all told, and I wouldn't expect any harm or any symptoms now or in the future.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Brainy Midwest

Table Rock, Neb.

May I challenge the statement by "Fed Up" that "the rural student is lower in intelligence."

According to Merit Publishing Company's "Who's Who Among American High School Students," Volume V, 1970-71, the Survey of High Achievers by Regions indicates those from the Midwest states — North Dakota, South Dakota, Kansas, Nebraska, Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Wisconsin, Illinois, Michigan, Indiana and Ohio, which are basically agricultural — rank highest, with 41%. Northeastern states rank next with 27%, etc.

Methinks "Fed Up" should move to a town larger than the metropolis of Hallam, population 280 according to the 1973 map distributed by the State of Nebraska, before making such broad statements.

Resent Article

Lincoln, Neb.

As beauticians, we resent the article by Susan Fogg in the April 16 Star. We think she should write another article and apologize for some of the statements made.

It is discrimination to say we come from blue-collar, or lower income families.

It is childish to say we have to get in good with the receptionist; furthermore, it is two-faced to be tattling to the owner on fellow workers.

Another thing — it would be very childish to cut or shear or burn a customer's hair just for revenge. We do think we are much more mature.

In short, we don't think much of an article of this nature.

Sewer Issue Hangs Up Hoppe's Subdivision

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

Developer John Hoppe's much debated plans to subdivide 91.5 acres lying adjacent to Mahoney Park are still on the drawing boards.

City lawmakers split 3-3 Monday on resolving the controversial sanitary sewer issue. The planning department is recommending Hoppe pay for any additional sewer lines which eventually may be needed when existing sewer lines become overloaded.

Councilmen Dick Baker, Steve Cook and Max Denney voted to delete that requirement, while council members Sue Bailey, Helen Boosalis and John Robinson voted to retain it. Bob Sikyta was absent.

The entire preliminary plat application will be carried over to next week's agenda.

Council members received no guidance from planning commission advisors, either. They were unable to determine whether diversion of sewage from 65 acres lying within the Stevens Creek watershed back into the existing system would overload sewer lines.

Hoppe's counsel, Chauncy Barney, contended a physical overloading of the sewers would not occur.

Public Works Director Bob Obering maintained the booking up of the so-called Golf Park subdivision would result in a "certain overloading" requiring supplemental sewer lines.

Boosalis and Cook pointed out that when the city approved A-2 residential zoning for a portion of Hoppe's land, it signaled its intent to open the land for urbanization.

Accordingly, Boosalis questioned, why were not necessary utility lines built.

The lines were not constructed, Obering remarked, due to the "magic line" — the rightline which divides the direction sewage flows. Sewage to the west flows into the existing Havelock system, he said, while sewage flowing to the east eventually would be hooked into a Stevens Creek system.

"We were not told to do any planning in that drainage area," Obering said.

The council directed Obering to report back next week on additional sanitary sewer costs required by the development.

In a related development, Barney presented a letter from University of Nebraska Business Manager Ron Wright stating the university's intent to cooperate with the city and not turn the neighboring "hog farm" into residential development.

In other action, the council rejected 4-2 Hacor, Inc.'s application to build a community unit plan, complete with an equestrian center, located three miles south of Old Cheney Rd. near Rokeby. The County Board also will act on the application since a portion of the land is outside the city's jurisdictional three-mile limit.

Voting to deny the application on the grounds that the Rolling Greens plan would create urban sprawl were Bailey, Boosalis, Cook and Robinson. Baker and Denney voted to approve the application.

The council unanimously gave the green light to Tabitha Development Corp. to build a community-type village for people 55 and over north of Lincoln.

Tabitha is proposing to build 257 units on a 38-acre tract near 27th and Superior. A total of 2,300 units are planned, including single family houses, apartments, townhouses and low-income units.

And in acting on a fourth subdivision project, the lawmakers approved Western Realty's preliminary plat for Coddington Mill, located at West A and S Coddington Ave. The developer is proposing to build 172 townhouses on a 40-acre tract.

In other action, the council defeated the application of R. E. Spangle to build an office building for the Central Union Conference of the Seventh Day Adventist Church, at 56th and Pioneers Blvd.

Council members indicated they felt the building would be detrimental to the surrounding residential neighborhood.

And residents living along N. 59th from Aylesworth to Holdrege will get a dirt street paved with a city subsidy.

If a majority of property owners agree, residents on the west side of N. 59th will pay 25% of the assessment bill, residents on the east side will pay 50% and the city will pay the remaining 25%.

Obering said he would prefer sticking to standard city policy whereby the property owners would pay the entire bill, with no city subsidy.

Support for the subsidy came from Community Development Director Leo Scherer, who said the council will be receiving additional applications to pave such dirt roads with similar city subsidies.

The lawmakers also accepted the conveyance of Willard School, at Folsom and B, from the School Board. In exchange, the city will credit the school district with $20,000 to be applied against future land exchanges.

The council also:

—Created paving district in portion of Helen between Cornhusker Hwy. and Judson. Know from east line of Northside Village 2nd Add to 20th.

—Created sewer district in Leighton Griffith east to north-south alley in Bix and alley in Bix 6 between 32nd and 33rd from Leighton to Walker.

—Created sewer district in Sumner from 17th street to 18th.

—Created water district in Knox from Sylvia to Helen.

—Amended ordinance to annex land in vicinity of 56th and Old Cheney Rd.

Resolutions and Public Hearings —Delayed two weeks application of Sterling Flott and Precourt Development to amend special permit granted by council in 1971 to Goertzen & Thessen for community unit plan.

—Delayed application of Bob Carroll Machine & Motor Co. for administrative subdivision permit to create two lots near 27th and Superior.

—Approved application of J. Michael Hughes for retail package liquor license dba Paul's Place, at 2202 O.

—Approved application of T. & J. Inc. dba God Father Pizzeria for retail Class C license at 240 N. 12th.

—Approved application of Paul Bankers as manager of God Father Pizzeria.

—Approved application of William Ellison as manager of retail Class C license issued to Far West Services, dba Reuben's in Gateway Shopping Center.

—Approved application of Ronald Walker as manager of retail on sale beer only license issued to Pizza Hut, Inc. dba Pizza Hut at 239 N. 14th.

—Approved application of Gazelle Enterprises, dba Barrymore's, for retail Class C license at 128 N. 13th.

—Approved application of David Meyer as manager of retail Class C license issued to Gazelle Enterprises dba Barrymore's.

—Ordered constructed following districts: water in N.W. 17th from West O to West Q, in 4th from alley between Knox and Greenwood to Gladstone in London's 1st Add., in all those portions of Hanson Dr. located in City of Lincoln, in Van Dorn from 48th to 56th, and sewer districts in 27th from Fairfield to Superior in London's 3rd Add. and London's 1st Add. and in Joy Court in Putensen's Add.

City, County Officials OK Drafting Of Plan

City and county officials Monday ordered the drafting of an agreement formulating a joint human services department.

That action followed the compilation of results of a questionnaire prepared by Councilwoman Sue Bailey in an attempt to merge various City Council, County Commission and mayoral viewpoints.

Only Commissioner Robert Colin did not vote on the directive issued to the city and county legal departments to draft an agreement calling for

- creation of a joint county-city department, under the direct administration of the County Board.
- division of funding on a 50-50 basis
- hiring of at least one full-time staff person, with auxiliary clerical help

A majority of the group agreed that the staff should define human services now being delivered, define the needs of residents and determine the adequacy of the services to meet the needs.

Additionally, a majority agreed that a human services capital improvements plan should be developed for consideration at budget time each year.

A majority also concurred it may be necessary to contract with a consultant for additional assistance.

No monetary figure was set for either the proposed staff person or for consulting services. Councilman Dick Baker maintained the staff person's salary should be comparable to the wages of other city department heads.

Councilman Steve Cook recommended that the seven-member Human Services Advisory Committee be brought in on the job interview process.

Format Of Radial Hearing Debated

City lawmakers spent considerable time Monday trying to tie down the format to be followed during next week's Northeast Radial hearing.

It was only after Councilman Max Denney presented a draft of his anti-radial resolution that the council was able to agree to the all-star line-up.

Denney's resolution, made public for the first time Monday, states, "due to the present inadequate status of planning for, funding, corridor and design, the council shall no longer give consideration to appropriation of funds for the Northeast Radial."

Under state law, the planning commission has the sole authority to approve city departments' capital improvements program.

However, Wood said, should the council decide to bury the radial, the lawmaker's answer to the planning commission would be "not to fund it."

The format to be followed will see Planning Director Doug Brogren take the microphone first to present the administration's report. Fifteen minutes has been allotted.

Next, Denney will speak on his resolution, explaining why he called for such an action.

Then, proponents of the resolution, or the anti-radial people, get an hour to make their pleas, and opponents of the resolution get an hour to rebut the testimony.

The main source of debate surrounded the presentation of the administration's report. At various times it was suggested the report should be made after the proponents' hour's worth of testimony, in between the proponents and opponents and after or with the opponents' testimony.

Councilwoman Sue Bailey maintained the administration should take the opposing team's position due to previous city actions supporting land acquisition for the freeway.

Schwartzkopf said the administration will be presenting "just the facts" so that the council can make a decision.

Top Pay For Mayor Rule Hit

City department heads could receive fatter paychecks than the mayor under a recommendation being made by the Government Evaluation Committee.

The committee is recommending the repeal of a charter provision requiring the mayor to be the highest paid head of any city department.

In a letter to the council, committee chairman Erv Peterson said, "this tends to discourage promotions and acceptance of promotions," and "tends to reduce the opportunity to secure and keep the best available employees."

While "no great damage has actually occurred," Peterson said the committee can foresee serious problems arising if some top-flight department heads resign. The city would then be forced to find qualified replacements on the open market at a salary which may not be nationally competitive.

The committee, which undertook the review at council direction last fall, is not recommending an increase in the mayor's salary "solely because of this problem." Peterson points out that a mayoral candidate knows the salary before running for office.

Peterson noted that in 12 of 14 cities surveyed the mayor is not the highest paid official.

Additionally, a violation of the charter provision may already be occurring, since Lincoln Electric System Administrator Walt Canney and Lincoln General Hospital Administrator Robert Brungard are paid higher wages than Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf.

Two reports received by the city within the past two years call for a re-examination of that charter provision. Those reports were the Public Administration Services study and the Arthur D. Little study on consolidating city and county government.

City lawmakers referred the recommendation to the Charter Revision Committee, which is being reconstituted as an official advisory agency of the city.

Two Buffalo Are Killed In Escape

(c), Chicago Daily News

Chicago—Two three-year-old buffalo, fugitives from a suburban zoo here, had to be killed because a tranquilizer gun could not be found to capture them alive.

The 800-pounders were let out by someone who cut the chain to their cage. One of the animals tied up the expressway traffic.

"We called every zoo in the area for a tranquilizer gun, but no one answered," a police official said. Authorities also tried to find someone able to lasso them.

"The zoo finally advised us to shoot," the official said.

The carcasses will be donated to charity, police said.

Big Leisure Time Jump Seen

By GORDON WINTERS
Star Staff Writer

The president of the National Parks and Recreation Association predicted Monday that leisure needs will be paramount in future years.

John J. Collier, also director of the Anaheim, Calif., Parks and Recreation Department, said that some officials are predicting that by the year 2000 only 140 days in a year may be spent at work.

"We are living on the precipice of change," Collier said. "Everyone in this room has lived a thousand years in comparison with changes in past centuries."

Collier spoke at the morning session of the Midwest

Conference of the National Parks and Recreation Association.

"We are going to have to adjust to changing life-styles," Collier told the parks and recreation professionals. "We need to give more emphasis to the arts of living."

Collier said there is no longer any need to fight the work ethic — the idea that recreation is suspect.

"We're past the age of apologizing," Collier said. "We've got the kind of service people want."

Professionals in the field of parks and recreation need to "plan for leisure," Collier said. In the past, he said, planning for recreation has never had an equal position with planning for commerce, housing, transportation and education.

Collier said that man has too often destroyed the natural look of the land, lost his partnership with the land.

After moving from the inner city to suburbs, Collier said, people are once again looking for space.

"The issue is not that we have animal life, but that we have human life to enjoy," Collier said. He is not seeking a return to the rigid life of the Spartans, but a realization that there are limits to growth and luxury, Collier said.

In other matters at the conference Monday, Mrs. Rose Hanzlicek received the Nebraska Recreation and Park

Association's "distinguished service award."

'Cronyism, Politics' Said 'Riddling' VA

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Cooper T. Holt, executive director of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Washington office, charged Monday the Veterans Administration "is riddled with cronyism and politics" to the extent "it is no longer an effective agency."

Holt said "the nation's 29 million veterans and especially the six million men and women who served in the Vietnam War era face a loss of rights if the situation is not corrected."

Holt, a former VFW national commander, commented in Omaha after speaking at Broken Bow, Neb., Sunday at the dedication of a Veterans Memorial building.

He charged that "since 1968 when President Nixon took office and appointed Donald E. Johnson veterans administrator, the daily patient load at VA hospitals has been ruthlessly permitted to drop from 91,700 to 80,000, even though there are now at least two million more veterans."

Escapee Is Caught In Colorado

Julesburg, Colo. (AP) — An escapee from an Oklahoma jail was captured late Sunday night after a high-speed chase from western Nebraska into Colorado, police said.

The state patrol and local police arrested Timothy Peterson, 23, about five miles into Colorado after police in Nebraska had chased him along Interstate 80 from Ogallala, Neb., into Colorado, police said.

Peterson and Richard Young, 26, are wanted for jail escape and investigation of murder in Okemah, Okla., and had escaped jail in Casper, Wyo., Nov. 11, the Natrona County sheriff's office in Casper said.

Young was arrested last Wednesday in Cambridge, Ill., on a speeding investigation. He was jailed after presenting the officer with a suspended driver's license, police said.

The FBI has taken custody of Young and jailed him at Rock Island, Ill., awaiting extradition, police said.

The state patrol says Peterson's car apparently ran out of gas late Sunday night after the chase had reached speeds of 120-130 miles an hour. The patrol said two Nebraska State Troopers at Big Springs, Neb., fired shots at the car.

There were no injuries in the chase, police said.

In Wyoming, Young is charged with robbery, assault and kidnapping and Peterson with burglary and forgery.

Curtis Says Romanians To Help Out

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., said Monday he has been assured that the Bucharest government will intercede with North Vietnam to obtain an accounting of all Americans still missing in action in Southeast Asia.

While attending an Inter-parliamentary Union conference in Bucharest, Romania, last week, Curtis discussed the matter with Corneliu Bogdan, Romanian ambassador to the United States.

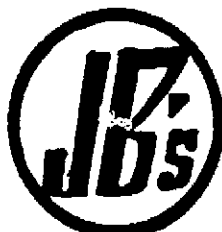

Curtis said he expressed his personal dissatisfaction with the North Vietnamese failure to account for MIAs and asked Bogdan to pressure North Vietnam to allow American search teams greater access in pursuing their own investigations.

Curtis said Bogdan agreed to urge the Romanian government to intervene.

On his return from Europe, Curtis also said he would continue to press the state and defense departments to supply U.S. commissaries abroad with American beef. Curtis visited a commissary in Paris, where he observed shelves laden with American canned goods, coffee, tea and other items, but noted the frozen meat was from Denmark.

Most Homeowner's Insurance won't replace everything you lose.

The St. Paul
can come pretty close.

Suppose you lose the contents of your home to fire or theft. You expect your homeowner's policy to replace it. Right?

Not entirely. The value of your belongings depreciates and prices rise. So chances are your insurance won't replace everything you'd like to have back.

It doesn't have to be that way. With You Insurance from The St. Paul, you can add a new Contents Replacement Feature to your homeowner's policy. You get protection that virtually ignores depreciation and inflation.

Lose a three-year-old TV set that costs $600 and replace it with a brand new set — even if the new one now costs $650. It's that simple.

Make our better contents replacement coverage a part of your St. Paul protection. It's what we mean by You Insurance. Replacing a lot more of the things you lost.

The St. Paul has been a leader in insurance for individuals since 1853.

SE Tech Board Adopts Plan

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

The Southeast Nebraska Technical Community College Area Board Monday adopted a major reorganization plan for administration and operation of its campuses, and ratified its earlier termination of Fairbury campus President Ivan Simpson's contract for 1974-75.

The board then directed Area President Dr. Robert S. Eicher to implement immediately a written evaluation program for administrators and instructional

Victim Former Patrol Informant

Patricia Webb, 24, found shot to death Saturday had worked as a "special employee" for the State Patrol's Drug Control Division, Lancaster County Atty. Paul Douglas said Monday.

Douglas said the woman, whose partially clad body was found under a hay bale on a farm about 19 miles south of Lincoln, began working for the patrol last fall.

But he said her employment with the patrol had terminated about April 7 or 8, about 10 days before her disappearance.

"Special employee" is a term the patrol uses to describe the position often referred to as informant. Those employees attempt to purchase illegal drugs. Their testimony on successful "buys" may be used in court.

Miss Webb was absent from court last week in a drug case in which she was slated to testify and she was also scheduled to appear in other cases involving marijuana and heroin, according to Douglas.

Douglas said investigators have now been able to establish that Miss Webb was seen at about 1 a.m. Thursday at the Adult Book and Cinema Store, 140 1/2 S. 11th, where she had been employed for four days as a clerk.

She was scheduled to close the store at the end of working hours and open it again later in the day, he said.

Douglas said phone cords leading to an extension phone from a pay phone had been cut. About $30 in cash, a calculator and 51 books were missing from the store.

Douglas said that authorities have been searching for the woman since Thursday.

Douglas said authorities have not yet been able to determine if more than one weapon was used in the slaying. Douglas said earlier that a .25-caliber weapon was used. Tests were being conducted to determine if a .22-caliber weapon was also used. Miss Webb was shot 10 or 11 times.

Authorities said an autopsy revealed that she had been dead more than 12 hours before her body was found at 2:30 p.m. Saturday by Oscar Fiene, who went to the farm, which he owns, to feed cattle.

Douglas met with representatives from the Lincoln Police Department, the Lancaster County Sheriff's Office and the State Patrol again Monday afternoon to discuss the case.

staff at all levels within the area college, on all three campuses.

Introduced by board member Robert Wekesser of Lincoln, the program will provide individual evaluations for the board to use in making decisions on appointments for the 1975-76 school year and thereafter.

The actions Monday came in a reconvened meeting, after the board last Tuesday had insufficient information on which to base its decisions.

No Reappointments

The board on March 19 charged Eicher with conducting campuses. And it voted not to reappoint any staff member in reorganization proposals for the Fairbury, Lincoln and Milford administrative or supervisory areas until adoption of any reorganization recommendations, as the basis for contract renewals.

The move was intended to minimize administrative duplication, eliminate excess staff and gain operational flexibility for the campuses, organized into the area college last July 1.

The board approved the reorganization on a 6-2 vote, with members Donald L. Ferguson of Lincoln and Ruth Nestor of Tecumseh absent. Marge Haessler of Wahoo and Loretta Draper of Plattsmouth voted no, objecting that confusion resulted from new job titles for campus presidents.

In the adopted plan, Eicher was named president of all three campuses, retaining his area president designation and duties. The campus presidents will now be called campus directors, but will retain their same responsibilities.

5 Directors

The plan also establishes, at the area college level directly under Eicher, five directors of fiscal services, public information, student services, in-service and curriculum, and community services. The latter two are new.

Staff members on each campus will have partial community services duties, one part of many staff duty changes to be ordered in contract renewals. The fiscal services area director will replace business manager positions on all three campuses.

Board members concurred that the new plan provides clarity and uniformity among titles and jobs on the departmental level that are similar or identical on each campus.

The board unanimously adopted Eicher's recommendations on employment of area college administrative and supervisory staff. The action came after an executive session to discuss the personnel changes.

The recommendations for the Fairbury campus deny contract renewal offers to President Simpson, librarian Doris Wragge, and business manager Sidney Regnier, whose position was eliminated.

No Football

Four other individuals at Fairbury will be offered contracts, as will three coaches, based on approval of a campus athletic program. Football, however, will be discontinued.

At Milford, 21 of 22 individuals including new President Robert Klabenes, will be offered new contracts; Jess Weyand will retire. Six others at Milford will be offered reappointment with changes of assignment.

On the Lincoln campus, all 28 individuals under scrutiny including President James E. Lightbody, will be offered new contracts. Five of those persons will assume new area-wide responsibilities.

In other action Monday, the board voted to:

- Hire Marvin E. Jewell & Co. of Lincoln to audit the area college for the 1973-74 academic year. Unanimous
- Seek approval from the State Board of Technical Community Colleges to begin an auto parts instructional program on the Milford campus. Unanimous - Pay $1,115 for 1973-74 dues to the Nebraska Association of Technical Community Colleges. Six ayes, with board chairman Mervin W. Ebers of Seward and member Larry G. Hermann of Lincoln dissenting.
- Renovate an unused classroom in the Whittier Center on the Lincoln campus into a student lounge, with cost estimates ranging from $1,500 to $2,000. Unanimous
- Authorize Eicher to renew a surplus property agreement for the Milford campus with the federal Defense Supply Agency, whereby the area college pays only freight, insurance and installation for the items. Unanimous
- Approve reorganization of a medical center on the Lincoln campus into a consolidated comprehensive learning center with an eye toward extending the program to all campuses. Unanimous

The area board set its next meeting at 1 p.m., May 21, in the Whittier Center, 2240 Vine.

Disaster Declaration Sought For Arcadia

ARCADIA, Neb. (AP) — A state official Monday told victims of the Arcadia tornado that Nebraska has applied for a federal disaster area declaration for the village.

More than 40 homes and businesses were damaged when a twister struck the community of 400 Saturday afternoon.

Present at the meeting were officials of the Farmers Home Administration, the Red Cross and the State Civil Defense Department.

Adjutant Gen. Burl Johnson said that the state only has a limited amount of resources that it can apply to Arcadia, but he said federal disaster funds might be available on a limited basis, too.

He said there is a possibility that emergency housing in the form of mobile homes could be brought to the community. If this was done, the town would have to supply the facilities and

Whelan Gives Burbach Reply To Fund Blast

Nebraska City (AP) — Gov. J. James Exon's choice as a runningmate — Gerald Whelan of Hastings — Monday replied to comments of State Sen. Jules Burbach that it is inequitable for Whelan to have access to the governor's campaign money.

Whelan said he and Exon are running as a team and they are spending as a team.

He said the governor chose him as a runningmate and "if this is unfair, it might be unfair only from Burbach's standpoint."

Burbach also is a Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor.

Burbach had complained Sunday that Whelan can attract funds more easily by being tied to the governor.

Extra care in engineering...it makes a big difference in small cars.

Half the reason you want a small car is the engine...

Chrysler Corporation offers you a 318 V-8 that, in a recent test, got better gas mileage than a competitor's 6 ...or a Slant 6 that did as well as a competitor's 4!

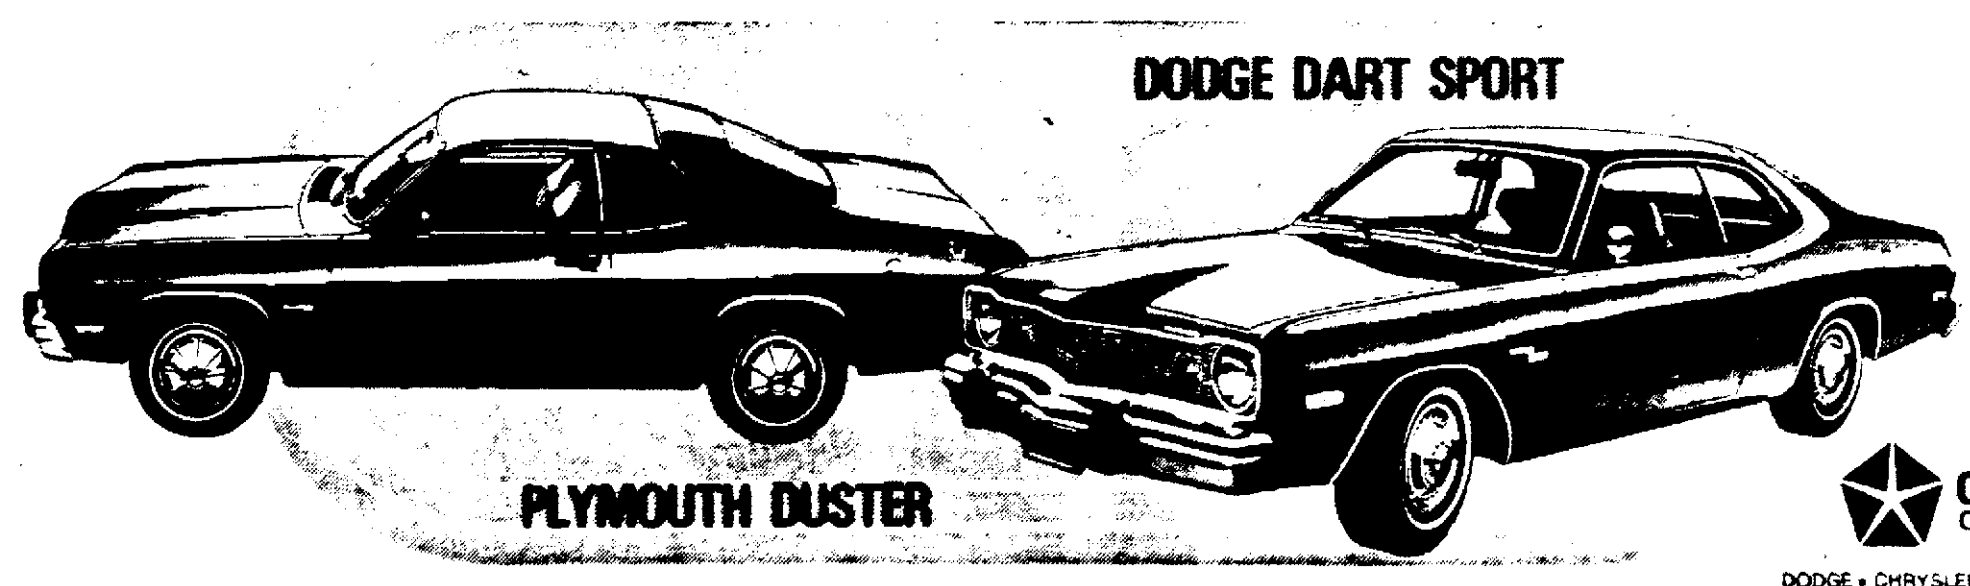

The United States Auto Club sanctioned the test and certified the results in January and February of 1974. A Dodge Dart Sport and a Plymouth Duster, equipped with the 318 V-8, actually got better gas mileage in city driving than a Chevrolet Nova equipped with a six-cylinder engine.

In the same test, USAC certified that a Plymouth Duster and a Dodge Dart Sport, equipped with a 225 "Slant Six" engine and new standard 2.76 rear axle, got much better gas mileage than Nova or Maverick, with six-cylinder engines — did better than a four-cylinder Mustang II in the city and comparably on the highway.

...the other half is the car!

- Dodge Dart Sport and Plymouth Duster are sticker-priced below Volkswagen's most popular model.*
- Dodge Dart Sport and Plymouth Duster give you 20 inches more total hiproom than Maverick—and also more than Nova, Pinto or Vega.
- Plymouth Duster and Dodge Dart Sport give you as much trunk space as 3 Pintos or 2 Vegas.
- Plymouth Duster and Dodge Dart Sport have electronic ignition standard—can save you up to $62 on recommended ignition maintenance in the first 24,000 miles alone over competitive 6's like Nova's.

The answer is at your Dodge or Chrysler-Plymouth Dealers' (And you can drive one home today!)

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

78-Year Old Man Finds Purpose And Satisfaction In Keeping His Street Clean

By ROBERT PETERSON
Few of us have enough humility and civic pride to pick up discarded newspapers, cigarette wrappers and soda cans that we see lying on the street and sidewalk. We somehow feel it is beneath us to pick up such litter and throw it in a trash can. But here's a letter telling of a man who finds purpose and satisfaction in keeping his street neat: "Several times a week a healthy-looking old gentleman comes down our street with a shopping cart stuffed with brooms and cleaning aids," writes a reader in Los Angeles. "He carefully sweeps the pavement and picks up paper and trash until the street is a delight of cleanliness."

"Various people ask, 'Who's the nut?' But everyone has to admire his work and willingness. A neighbor tells me she went out one day and offered him a couple of dollars as a gift for keeping the street so neat, but the man tipped his hat and refused any money for his services."

"The other day I felt compelled to talk with him, so I walked over as he was sweeping and complimented him on beautifying our neighborhood. He turned out to be the 78-year-old father of a young couple three blocks away. 'When I came to live with my daughter and her family,' he said, 'I found I had extra time. The regular sanitation workers don't spend very much time on this street, so I decided to do my part keeping our street neat and clean. It's healthy to work and keep the body active, and just having one person like you express appreciation is sufficient reward for me.'"

This is an exemplary story of civic dedication. All of us should take the cue and see if there isn't some way we can use our talents and free time for the betterment of communities in which we live.

20 Arabs Arrested

Jerusalem (UPI) — Police arrested 20 Arabs, most from East Jerusalem, as suspects in a wave of sabotage acts around the city in the past several weeks.

Several United States cities offer elders a reduction in fare when traveling on city buses and subways during off-peak hours. But these rare examples constitute about the only price break on travel available to any of our elder citizens. The nation's railroads, airlines, and bus companies have vetoed the idea of letting folks past 60 use empty seats at reduced rates. It's their position that, "If we give a price break to one age group, we'll be pestered to give the same price break to others."

A few European nations cater to elders, however. In Sweden there's a plan giving elders 67 years of age and older fare reductions on the nation's state-operated railways. A pass known as "The 67 Card" may be purchased for $2 by any elder offering proof of age eligibility, which thereafter entitles him to ride for half-fare on railroads anywhere in that country.

Many cartoons by the late Jimmy Hatlo touched on geriatric themes. One of my favorites has little Audrey asking her mother if it's true Ponce de Leon believed in a fountain of youth. Mama and some visiting lady friends laugh uproariously and say it was just a foolish story for, "Nobody could be that gullible."

But in the next panel we see Mama and her pals at a beauty salon up to their ears in mud packs and creams purring attentively as the attendant assures them, "It's guaranteed to make you look 20 years younger."

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Relatives figure in more important ways than is usual. Key is to be diplomatic without being weak. Keep grip on situation at hand. Taurus, Libra persons play key roles. Be flexible.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are somewhat sensual, appreciate luxury, could have a weight problem and you currently are in midst of confusing pace. Gemini, Virgo persons are drawn to you. May will be one of your most important months of 1974. You are a natural investigator, would make a good reporter and you should keep notes relating to your thoughts, experiences.

What Happens In That Room?

At the 16 county nursing stations you can have your blood pressure checked, get an immunization, or just ask a question.

The sign on the door reads "Supply," but each Tuesday morning the tiny room is transformed into a mini medical office complete with syringes, stethoscope and a registered nurse.

And each week more than 20 people, from infants to great-grandfathers, walk into the supply room to get an immunization or an allergy shot, to have their blood pressure taken and sometimes just to talk.

The supply room at the First United Methodist Church, 2723 No. 50 St., is one of 15 walk-in nursing stations operated by the Lincoln-Lancaster County Health Department as a service for residents of the county.

And what goes on each Tuesday morning in this tiny room is typical of the other nursing stations in urban and rural neighborhoods across the county.

In the hallway waiting area, older people who have come to eat their noon meal at the Senior Diner program in the church admire the babies and talk with the mothers.

Inside the room, Mrs. Nancy Williams, R.N., who has served this nursing station since it opened in the fall of 1972, greets each client.

"At first we used the church gymnasium, but it was just too big. This room gives us a private place to talk," said Mrs. Williams, who spends from 15 to 30 minutes with each client, averaging between 20 and 37 people each Tuesday.

Mrs. Williams fills out a reference card on each new client, including such information as medical history, physical status, medication they are taking, name of their regular doctor and specific problems.

And while doing this she answers questions and often explains the need for specific medicine or a doctor's diet.

"Many of the older people don't know what their medicine is, what it's effects are. And because they don't understand they may decide not to take it or they may take too much," she explained.

She will explain the importance of proper diet to older persons, expectant mothers or mothers of young children. She may answer a mother's questions about proper child development or possible allergies.

She has pamphlets and information on a multitude of health problems from venereal disease to arthritis.

For those with specific problems, such as high blood pressure, she may explain the need to follow their doctor's diet and list foods containing too much salt.

She may make a urine check for possible diabetes or a hemoglobin test for possible anemia. She is always on the lookout for specific problems which should be referred to a doctor. And she is always listening.

"Sometimes they just need reassurance that nothing is wrong. Sometimes they need that extra encouragement to see a doctor," said Mrs. Williams, a public health nurse with the health department.

"Some of the older people, in particular, won't see a doctor unless they are encouraged. They don't want to waste his time. And sometimes a young couple, new to town, may be having trouble locating a doctor." Mrs. Williams makes that extra call to get them an appointment.

Mrs. Williams does not diagnose or treat. She looks for any specific problems, high blood pressure, possible diabetes, then she refers clients to their physicians, and tries to follow up to see that they do see a doctor.

She also provides that supportive listening ear, answering all questions, educating about good health habits whenever possible.

"I'll bring in that diet the doctor gave me when I come next week," said one older woman as she picked up her purse to leave.

"You follow it during the week, too," Mrs. Williams gently suggested.

And, to some of the more regular clientele, Mrs. Williams has become "their nurse." They often bring their hobbies as well as their worries when they come for a weekly blood pressure check.

Nursing Station Popularity Grows

Walk-In Service For All

A mother brought her infant into a nursing station for an immunization. In checking the baby over, the community health nurse found the heart beat didn't sound quite right. She encouraged the mother to take the baby to a doctor.

The doctor discovered a congenital heart defect and the infant had surgery in time to repair the damage.

At another nursing station a nurse noticed that the fontanel (soft spot) on an infant's head was closing too fast. She insisted that the mother make a doctor's appointment. Through the doctor's examination and following surgery, the child was saved from a form of retardation known as microcephalism.

In other less extraordinary examples, nurses have caught early cases of diabetes or anemia, strep throat or high blood pressure and sent the clients to get a diagnosis and treatment from their regular physicians.

The nursing stations, an attempt to bring health services to more people in the community, started as a trial project in the fall of 1972, grew to nine stations and had served more than 2,300 people in its first year. Since then, the program has mushroomed into 16 separate locations, with some communities asking for additional hours or more days, according to Mrs. Margaret Royer, chief of the community health nursing division, Lincoln-Lancaster County Health Department.

The nursing stations have been set up in neighborhoods, both urban and rural, where there is a need for health services, where transportation is a problem. Nursing stations at each of the Senior Dining program facilities also provides easy access to the county's older residents, said Mrs. Royer, who first introduced the idea in Lincoln.

There is no diagnosing or treatment at these stations, each manned by a registered nurse, emphasized Mrs. Royer.

Prevention, education and early recognition of problems are the program's major goals. "We want to prevent or recognize a problem early enough to get the person under a doctor's care," she said.

What the service does include is physical assessment of children, screening tests, immunizations, counseling, referrals and follow-up.

The walk-in service, funded through tax money, is offered at no charge and is open to everyone in the community. No appointments are needed.

Users of the nursing stations include pregnant women, mothers of young children, college students, older citizens — anyone who wants to drop in

We're All Ignorant On Some Subjects

DEAR ABBY: This is concerning the lady who was irate because so few had responded to the R.S.V.P. on her party invitation. I resent your statement that such people are either ignorant or negligent.

I am a university professor with a Ph.D., have traveled extensively in about 20 countries, have attended socials with ambassadors and other notables, so I don't consider myself an ignorant person. Yet, until you printed it in your column, I never was sure of the meaning of R.S.V.P.

As a professor, I have learned that many college students don't know which way the earth rotates, or the difference in time between New York and Denver, so is it realistic to expect them to know the meaning of R.S.V.P.? Or do I have my priorities reversed?

I suggest that if the lady would substitute "Please let us know whether or not you are coming" for "R.S.V.P." on the invitation, she would have much better response.

UNDERSTANDING IN COLORADO

Candidates Will Discuss Women's Issues

Candidates for three Lincoln seats in the Unicameral will discuss their positions on women's

DEAR UNDERSTANDING: Ignorance is simply the absence of knowledge, which is no crime. We are all ignorant — only on different subjects. No offense intended.

DEAR ABBY: I have recently had a breast removed following cancer surgery. Please don't misunderstand me, I am glad to be alive and thank God it was discovered in time, but there is another problem: My doctor told me that in my case plastic surgery to recreate a natural-looking breast is possible. I was thrilled until I learned that my insurance company takes the view that since the loss of a breast doesn't impair bodily function and is not the result of an accidental injury, it is considered cosmetic surgery.

Although a natural-looking artificial breast isn't essential to my physical well-being, it would do worlds for my morale. Or am

I just vain? And don't you think this should be covered by insurance?

MRS. F.

DEAR MRS. F: To quote Dr. Eugene W. Worton, a member of The California Society of Plastic Surgeons, and a consultant of mine: "If a woman has a breast removed because of cancer and wants reconstruction so that she can wear a bathing suit or a low-cut dress, that is hardly cosmetic in the sense of a woman having a face-lift or a nose operation. This woman has a deformity she acquired as a result of cancer and she wants to return to normal. She is not asking to be the centerfold of Playboy."

I agree with Dr. Worton.

New officers of the Women's Physical Education Club include LaJean Jensen, Hartington, president; Becky Hillman, Lincoln, vice president; Shirley Arnold, Lincoln, secretary, and Tam Thietje, West Point, treasurer.

Each candidate will discuss such issues child care, divorce, credit, abortion and corrections during a five-minute address, to be followed by a general question and answer session. Diane Theisen of the Women's Political Caucus will moderate the discussion.

WCC with Kappie Weber serving as coordinator, is a coalition of more than 20 state and local women's organizations.

ERA Lost Cause In Missouri House

The Chairman of the Missouri House Constitutional Amendments committee, Rep. Howard Hines, has decided not to hold hearings on the ERA Amendment before the legislature adjourns on April 30. This, in effect, makes a vote on ratification by the Missouri General Assembly impossible for this year.

Rep. Hines said that debate on the ERA would be too time consuming and delay other bills.

POSTCARD by Stan Dolapina

San Francisco — Down to North Beach on a sunny noon for the business luncheon. The beauty part about business lunches is you can "write it off." ("Write it off of what, friend?" I asked my inscrutable accountant. "You have to have money to write it off of.")

No matter. At Vanessi's, that ancient landmark of the Beach, the wine is red and robust. The cannelloni is something to write home about.

Spring has come to North Beach, home of the topless ladies. The barkers came out of the dark caverns and stood blinking in the golden sun.

The business lunch involved a reporter enroute Fiji. A photographer girl. A girl livens up the lunch even if she is a "person." (Copyright Women's Lib.) A lawyer — what's a business lunch without a lawyer to assure you it's deductible? The business lunch is the place of today's commerce.

I cannot get anything done unless surrounded by gin and roast beef. I can't find anybody in their offices. Heaven knows what offices are for in these days of red wine and rosy conversation.

The medics warn us against combining food and gin and hypertension. Yet I see my doctor at lunch. Hard at work with his tax lawyer while the cholesterol seeps silently in. Watch it, Doc!

In old and merry England, John Mitford, a writer, left this to his biographer: "For 14 years he had not where to lay his head. Yet he has been heard to say that if his soul was placed on one table and a bottle of gin on another, he would sell the former to taste the latter."

John, I guess, was a business luncher.

I was brought up on modest expense accounts. I worked for city editors with hearts you could chip arrowheads off. They didn't believe in spoiling the help.

"Seventy-five cents for lunch?" he screamed. "What did you have, caviar? What's wrong with the Joe's special?"

Once I put in for dog biscuit. I was sent out to interview a talking dog.

I said: "I thought he'd talk better if I took him to lunch."

The editor said: "Why should you take him to lunch? He's the one going to get his name in the paper."

He said: "God help us all. How did I ever get in this business?"

I get an executives magazine. I get it free — I should pay to find out how executives think.

It says: "The increase in business luncheons can be traced directly to the expense account. The fact that it is deductible from taxes.

"A company paying top bracket taxes is not alarmed by a $50 luncheon check if the actual cost to them is only $5 with the government picking up the difference."

I don't know what a lunch tab costs me. Lawyers and accountants tell me it doesn't cost the face value on the check. But it's hard to believe, Guru.

If the check says $50, that's what it means to me. A half a C-note I don't mean Monopoly money either.

Patrol Catches Iowa Speeders With Pickups

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—An Iowa law enforcement official said Monday that speeding motorists in Iowa can be stopped by a law officer in a pickup truck.

Or a sports car. Deputy Public Safety Commissioner Robert Holetz said Iowa's large fleet of law enforcement vehicles is not limited to traditional unmarked police cars and highway patrol cruisers.

For the past month, pickup trucks and small sports cars have rounded out the enforcement fleet.

Holetz hopes all Iowans will be cautious enough to observe the new 55-mile-per-hour limit.

But they should know that an ordinary pickup truck parked alongside the road might carry an officer ready to arrest them if they speed.

Elder More Concerned About Tomorrow Than Masters

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Lee Elder will play in the Masters—the first black to do so. But he isn't overly concerned about the invitation in the old South stronghold of Augusta, Ga.

Right now he's more interested in the Tournament of Champions and a second victory on the pro golf tour.

"I'll be happy to play in the Masters," the 38-year-old Elder said after his fourth-hole, sudden-death playoff victory over England's Peter Oosterhuis in the Monsanto Open Sunday.

"But right now I'm more excited about playing in the Tournament of Champions than I am about the Masters.

"That's a year away.

"There's a lot more tournaments and a lot of playing to be done before then," he said.

The Tournament of Champions is this week. It offers $200,000 in prize money to only 25 players. Elder, one of the few blacks on the pro tour, earned his right to play in the T of C—and in the 1975 Masters—with his dramatic triumph Sunday.

It almost didn't happen.

Elder had to finish birdie, par, birdie, birdie—a string of four consecutive 3s—to catch Oosterhuis in regulation play then all but lost the playoff on the first hole. He made bogey from the woods. Oosterhuis had a three-foot putt to save par—and missed it.

"I was standing there, before he hit the putt, thinking, 'aw, not again. It seems like I can't win a playoff,'" Elder said.

He had lost in playoffs before, once to Jack Nicklaus and once to Lee Trevino. But Oosterhuis missed.

"I felt then I couldn't lose," Elder said.

An 18-foot birdie putt on the fourth extra hole secured it, his first victory, a $30,045 check, a place in the T of C and a spot in the Masters.

At first Elder hedged about accepting the invitation.

"I'll have to weigh that somewhat," he said. "I'll have to weigh it carefully. I really don't want to be put on the spot as to yea or nay right now."

Later, however he said he "will definitely play in the Masters."

His early indecision was attributed to his elation over the victory and a desire to savor the triumph.

"It was a long time coming," he said.

Elder, once a cross-handed hustler on the public courses of Dallas and Los Angeles, had played a number of years on the black United Golf Association tour and had competed for six seasons on the major circuit before winning.

He began thinking seriously of attempting the tour in 1966 when he won 18 of 21 UGA events. Ten victories in a row on that circuit in 1967 gave him enough bankroll to try it.

In his rookie season on the PGA circuit he took Nicklaus to five holes of a sudden-death playoff before losing in the American Golf Classic.

He finished second several other times, losing to Trevino in Hartford in a playoff two years ago.

"After coming so close so many times, after leading and then blowing it, losing in playoffs, it has to cross your mind if you're ever going to win. Yes, I'd thought about it. Wondered about it."

He was in tears when it finally happened, but brushed them away after a telephone call to his wife.

"I want to cry, but people are gonna say, 'look at that grown man crying.'"

Then he turned his attention to the future.

"I still haven't made the top 60 (money winners) for next year. That's important," he said. And, in answer to a question.

Yes, the second one (a second victory) will come easier. It has to.

"It couldn't come harder."

Bucks Win Series; Bulls Fall

Third Quarter Rally Started By Robertson ... FOUR GAME SWEEP

CHICAGO (AP) — Veteran Oscar Robertson ignited a furious Milwaukee rally in the third quarter and the Bucks smothered the Chicago Bulls 115-99 Monday night to score a four-game sweep of their National Basketball Association Western Conference final series.

Scoreless in the first half, Robertson pumped in 16 last-half points to abet Kareem Abdul-Jabbar's 38 points and carry the Bucks into the NBA championship showdown between the winner of the current Boston Celtics-New York Knicks Eastern Conference final series.

The Bulls put pressure on the Bucks in a seesaw first half in which the score was tied 12 times and the lead changed hands seven times before the Bulls nudged to a 52-48 halftime margin.

But starting the third quarter, Robertson popped in three straight baskets to tie it at 54-54, then the Bucks took charge late in the third quarter with 10 straight unanswered points for a 65-66 lead.

Early in the fourth quarter, though, the Bucks uncorked another eight-point spurt to move into a 15-point lead of 87-72. After that, it was all over for the Bulls.

Although Chicago's Bob Love led the losers with 32 points, it was Cliff Ray's sharp early play that carried the game to the Bucks.

Ray, who wound up with 25 points, held his own against the towering Jabbar in the first half, being outscored only 20-15.

Milwaukee's Bob Dandridge, who scored 25 points, gave the Bucks the lead for keeps with his basket that put the Bucks ahead 67-66 with less than five minutes remaining in the third quarter.

Dandridge followed up with four more points to ignite the 12-point Buck explosion that wrapped up the game for Milwaukee at 75-66 just before the third period ended.

In the decisive third quarter the Bucks outscored the Bulls 29-16 and then blazed away for 38 points against the disorganized Bulls in the final quarter.

The Bucks shot a scorching 61 per cent from the field with Jabbar hitting 18 of 26 field goal tries and dominating both boards with 24 rebounds.

Robertson came to life in the second half, hitting eight of his 12 field shots. He led both teams with 10 assists.

The Bulls had reached the second round of the playoffs for the first time in their history by winning their Western semifinal series with the Detroit Pistons in seven games.

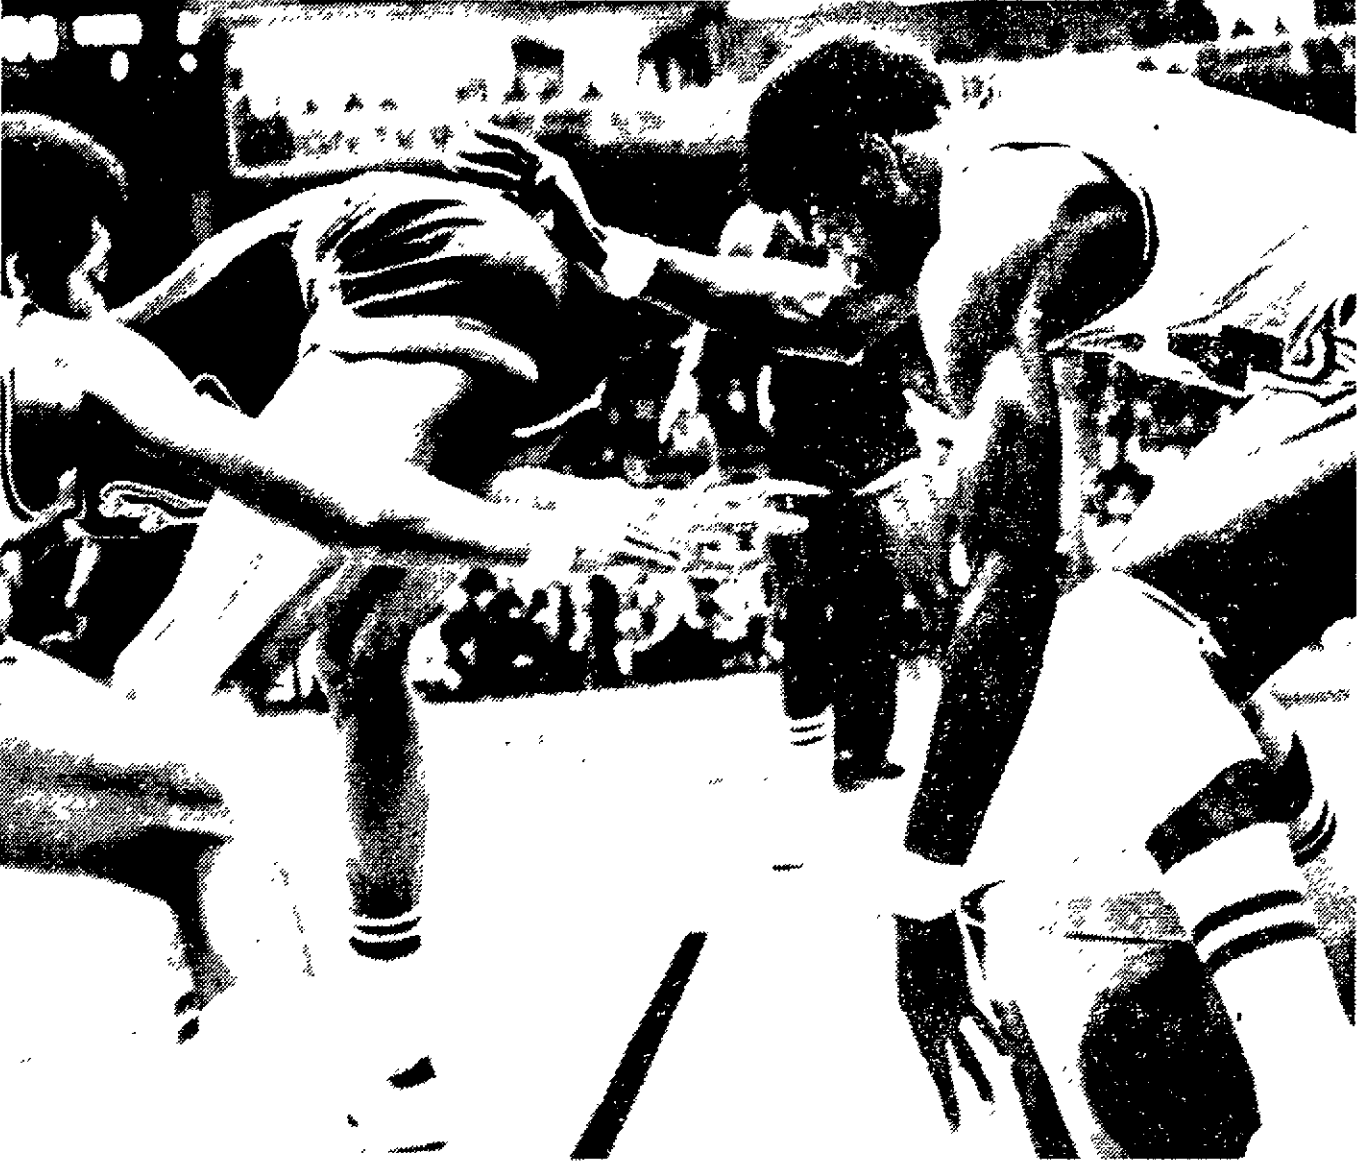

But in all four losses to the Bucks, the Bulls had their injured take-charge player, guard Jerry Sloan, sitting on the bench in street clothes.

Plainsmen Top Bulldogs Dual

By STEVE GILLISPIE

Seward — It was a matter of too much Nebraska Wesleyan in too many events for Concordia.

The Plainsmen defeated the Bulldogs, 104-40, here Monday afternoon in a dual track meet. Host Concordia was only able to win five of the 17 events.

NWU won both relays — 440 and mile — and swept three events, in addition to going 1-2 in three other events.

And to top it off both the Cloeter brothers of Concordia, senior Dan and sophomore Dave, were beaten.

Dan led most of the way in the mile, but Capital City nemesis Ron Greeno went in front on the last curve and was stretching his lead at the finish.

Almost the identical thing happened to Dave as he was the frontrunner after about a mile in the three-mile and held it until the last curve.

Greeno won the mile in 4:20.0, while Coates won the three-mile in 15:27.1.

Plainsmen middle distance runners Mark Greeno and Jim French and all-American high jumper Kurt Nielsen didn't compete because of injuries.

There were three double winners in the meet — Concordia sophomore Lynn Stuhr from Centennial High School, NWU freshman Jim Glen from Lincoln Southeast, and Plainsman sophomore Dave Folkerts from Lincoln Northeast.

Glen won the triple jump with a leap of 44-3 and the high jump at 6-4, while Stuhr won the 100 in :10.05 and the 220 in :22.8 and Folkerts the shot 49-7¼ and discus 127-2.

Doane had about three-fourths of its track team at the same and competed for a workout, but the Tigers' places weren't figured in the team or individual scoring.

The potential for Nebraska's first 7-foot high school high jumper may dwell within North Platte junior Bruce Kucera.

Kucera, a standard 6-8 basketball player, leaped 6-8 in competition over the weekend at Sterling, Colo., to become the state's all-time prep high jumper.

His effort may signal what high jump followers can expect from the Big 10 Conference this track season and next.

Kucera past fellow junior Doug Phelps of East Big 10 Hastings on the all-time charts.

Phelps leaped 6-7 for the state record last May as a sophomore and has jumped 6-5 this spring. Kucera tied for second in the 1973 state meet with an excellent 6-4¼ sophomore effort.

Competition within the Class A ranks this season is especially keen. Omaha North's Russ Hallberg achieved 6-5¼ over the weekend. Three others — Lexington's Bryan Steadman from Class B and Class C jumpers Tim Mohanna of Centura and Mark Eikmeier of Dodge — also have accomplished 6-5 this spring to threaten for spots on the all-time charts.

Colorado Blasts Creighton

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — Colorado bombed four Creighton pitchers for 11 hits to take a 15-8 second-game victory and a sweep of a college baseball doubleheader over the Bluejays Monday. The Buffs won the opener 5-4 in eight innings.

Colorado snapped a 5-all tie in the nightcap with a three-run rally in the fourth, aided by four walks and a two-run single by Dave Engels.

The Buffs added five runs in the sixth to put the game out of reach.

In the opener, pinch runner Dam Maestas scored the tiebreaker as he raced home from third on a one-out single by Buff centerfielder Jay Sierra.

Colorado had tied the game 4-4 in the bottom half of the seventh on an infield out, a pair of walks and singles by Engels and Jim Roberts.

Lincoln Northeast's Terry Novak, twice a Sunday Journal and Star Super Stater and an Idaho junior college all-American guard, became the first recruits in Nebraska's basketball camp. The Lincoln Journal has learned.

Novak, who led the Rockets to 34 wins in 39 games and one state championship the past two seasons, signed a national letter of intent to attend Nebraska Sunday.

The 6-4, 190-pound Novak is the third member of his family to earn a Cornhusker athletic scholarship.

His father, Tom Sr., was an all-American football center at Nebraska in 1949. His brother, Tom Jr., was a starting guard on this year's Cornhusker basketball team as a senior.

Novak, author of the fastest half mile (1:58.3) in state prep track circles this spring, indicated he also had considered attending Kansas State.

Novak had the rare distinction of earning first team all-city basketball recognition three consecutive years.

Coach Rollie Williams of North Idaho Junior College in Coeur d'Alene, Idaho confirmed via telephone Monday morning that Nebraska coach Joe Cipriano signed guard Steve Williams, an all-American guard this past season at North Idaho.

Williams said Willis, a 5-11 guard from Cathedral high school in Indianapolis, Ind., led North Idaho in scoring the past two seasons with 21.8 and 18.8 averages respectively.

Willis said he liked the atmosphere at Nebraska when he visited the school recently. Other reasons for his choosing NU were the other team members and the program at Nebraska.

"I'm looking forward to the upcoming program at Nebraska," he said. "They play some better competition in the Big Eight."

Nebraska's academic program also played a part in Willis' decision to attend NU.

"They (NU) have the academic field I'm interested in—the sociology major said

And they offer the right courses."

Despite his interest in other sports, which Willis called "trivial" compared to basketball, he considers himself strictly a basketball player.

"I work and other things just to keep busy, but I'm primarily a basketball player," he said.

Referring to next season Willis confidently said, "As a team, we (NU) should be able to hold our own against anyone next year."

Boston Defeats Royals

BOSTON (AP) — Carl Yastrzemski belted two home runs and singled across another run leading the Boston Red Sox to a 4-1 victory over the Kansas City Royals Monday night.

The Red Sox jumped on Nelson Briles for two runs in the first inning and were in front the rest of the way to post their fourth victory in a row.

Tommy Harper led off the first and came all the way around on a double by Doug Griffin, who extended his hitting streak to 10 games. Yastrzemski then lined a single to right, scoring Griffin.

Briles settled down after the first but reupped his right knee and had to be helped off the field after making a pitch in the fifth. He originally dislocated his knee in spring training.

Gene Garber took over for Briles and was the victim of Yastrzemski's solo homers in the sixth and eighth innings. He has six for the baseball season.

Rick Wise surrendered the Kansas City run in the sixth on a single by Cookie Rojas and a double by Jim Wohlford.

Wise allowed five hits, struck out five and walked one in six innings, earning his second victory in three decisions.

Monday's practice saw the offensive units get the first of their basic offense. Defensively, all the basic formations are installed.

This has been accomplished over a period of 13 practices. When the squad returns in the fall everything will be put in within three or four days because of the carryover from spring work.

That's why it's tough for a freshman to come in and play because we move so fast," Osborne said. "But I wouldn't be surprised to see some freshmen play some football in the fall."

Husker Spots Open?

By BOB OWENS

Four positions, two each on offense and defense, will be closely watched by Nebraska football coaches in the final two weeks of spring practice. Cornhusker coach Tom Osborne said Monday.

"Offensively, the biggest difficulty right now is deciding on how to rank the 2-3-4 men at both quarterback and fullback," he said. "Other than that we appear to be reasonably solid in the other positions. Of course, there are players we couldn't afford to lose."

On defense, the middle guard position remained "very unsettled" and there is a concern at the right tackle spot.

Dave Humm's backup men at quarterback, hopefully will be ranked by the end of spring drills on May 4, but it's possible even the No. 2 man won't be known until right before the Sept. 14 opener against Oregon.

The contenders are Earl Everett, Terry Luck, Randy Garcia, Glen Ray and Ed Burns — not necessarily in that order.

At fullback, where Tony Davis is No. 1, it's a chase among Jim Belka, Gary Higgs, Jason Justice and Lindsay Kucera — again, not necessarily in that order.

Willie Thornton still out because of an ankle sprain, the middle guard battle remains unsettled. "Jeff Pullen has been the most consistent," Osborne said. "John Lee has shown some improvement." Lee was converted from tackle to the key defensive spot at the start of spring.

Other middle guards battling for a ranking are Jim Wightman who was switched from defensive end, Joe Collura, John Plurknett and Scott Hertenstein.

At right tackle, Osborne said Stan Waldemore, Mike Fultz and George Mills all have done some good things. The Huskers have checked out both left tackles on the right side in the last two practices. These are Dean Giesler and Ron Pruitt.

The University of Nebraska baseball team fresh from a victory at Missouri Saturday, hosts UNO in a doubleheader on the NU diamond Tuesday afternoon.

The Missouri victory was Nebraska's first Big Eight action this year and the seventh of the season for the Huskers. The other six have been recorded the past three Tuesdays while sweeping three home twin bills.

The first of the two games against UNO is set to start at 1:30.

How To Make $300,000

You don't have to be a quarterback . . . or a golfer . . . to make $300,000. Would you believe that earnings figure is possible in tennis?

So, dad, get down to the sporting goods store and buy junior a tennis racquet, even if he's only eight years old. Get him started taking lessons, and someday he might be as rich as Joe Namath.

Jack Kramer, one of the all-time greats of tennis, said during his visit to Lincoln last Saturday there are now 80 to 90 recognizable tournaments in the world with $50,000 in prize money.

There are three professional tours now in the winter and two others in the summer where the players are raking in $9 million a year. That figure is just slightly below the money being offered by the Professional Golfers Association tour.

Leading money winner last year on one men's tour alone, Ilie Nastase, earned $228,750 between mid-January and May. Chris Evert, a 19-year-old girl, boosted her winnings to $72,000 this year when she won a tournament Sunday in St. Petersburg, Fla.

"I hollered for years to make tennis a big time sport through money," Kramer said. "Between 1953 and 1962 I signed everybody who could play at all and took them on tours around the country."

"It wasn't until 1968 when Lamar Hunt signed 14 of the top 17 players that it became apparent that if Open tennis wasn't approved immediately Wimbledon wouldn't have anybody to compete."

The officials of the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association, who had resisted permitting pros to compete against amateurs, finally recognized the pros and there were five events the first year.

Golfers Outnumbered

It is estimated that 18 million people play tennis at least five times or more every year. Five years ago it was only eight or nine million. Golf claims 11 to 12 million players.

"We claim more people are playing tennis now than golf," Kramer said. One reason is that in many areas it's almost impossible to get on a course.

The big reason, though, is that real estate developers are now putting in tennis courts rather than golf courses to sell their new houses. And Kramer wasn't knocking golf when he made that statement. He owns a 36-hole course outside Los Angeles.

Economy is one reason developers have turned to tennis. They can put in 50 courts on 10 acres while a golf course requires 115 to 120 acres and four to five times more money.

If you're trying to decide whether to buy junior a set of clubs or a tennis racquet, there's quite a bit of difference in the cost. Golf shoes also cost more than tennis shoes. And it's difficult to lose a tennis ball.

Kramer said tennis instructors are leaning to starting a youngster in the sport at age eight, but he thinks there needs to be developed a smaller racquet and a smaller court and ball for the kiddies. "It would be more pleasant for them," he added.

Tennis has changed in recent years with the advent of the tie breaker rule which requires only a point game lead after a 6-6 tie rather than two games.

Stamina used to be more necessary than it is today because many games lasted for hours. Now a normal set will last only about 30 minutes.

The rules have diminished the value of a strong serve, although that can come in handy. "Now you need a good forehand, a good backhand and must play good defense," Kramer said.

Mets Not Worried About Seaver's Start

NEW YORK (AP) — Tom Seaver, the two-time National League Cy Young Award winner and the highest paid pitcher in baseball, is off to the worst start of his major league career, but the New York Mets aren't extremely worried . . . yet.

"He'll find it (his rhythm)," pitching coach Rube Walker said confidently. "You know he can get it because the arm's sound, it's not hurting. But it's important how long it takes."

Seaver, Walker and Manager Yogi Berra were to look at game films Monday and try and find out exactly what has been the cause of Seaver's dismal performances. What they saw had to resemble a horror show—and be most disconcerting.

Statistically, they revealed that the ace right-hander, who earns $172,000 a season, has been bombed for 35 hits, including six home runs, and 17 earned runs in 25 1-3 innings for a horrendous 5.68 earned run average. In four starts, he has yet to win while losing twice.

In contrast, Seaver finished last season with a 19-10 record and a 2.06 ERA last year in 36 starts while winning the Cy Young Award for the second time and helping the Mets capture the National League pennant. He won the award for the first time in 1969 when he was 25-7 with a 2.21 ERA and led the Mets to their only World Series championship.

"The main problem is there's nothing on the ball," said the visibly concerned Seaver. "It's not popping. It's dead. My arm doesn't hurt—just my pride. It's embarrassing. It's frustrating."

Seaver's latest shelling came Sunday when the Pittsburgh Pirates blasted him for 12 hits and six runs in five innings. The loss dropped the Mets' record to 3-9 and left them in fifth place in the NL East, six games behind the frontrunning Montreal Expos.

When Seaver was taken out of the game after being tagged for hits by the first two batters in the Pittsburgh sixth, the fans at Shea Stadium booed him unmercifully. It was the first time he was booed since 1970 when he faded in the late stages of the season.

"It's not the first time and it won't be the last," he said. "That's their prerogative. I would have booed, too."

Asked what he thought Seaver's problem was, Berra replied, "I don't think his pitching motion is right. That right leg ain't dirty."

When Seaver completes his follow-through, his right leg often scrapes the ground. But his right pants leg was clean Sunday.

Berra emphasized, however, that he had no plans of taking Seaver out of the starting rotation, but he said it would be up to the pitcher to correct his mistakes.

"We can tell him what's wrong," said Berra. "but he's got to correct it. He's got to do it."

Cedeno Paces Astros

HOUSTON (UPI) — Slugger Cesar Cedeno, his 13-game hitting streak broken this weekend, drove in five runs by lining two homers over the left and center-field fences, to help Houston Astros pitcher Claude Osteen to his third win of the season, 7-0 over the Atlanta Braves Monday night.

Cedeno's blasts, his third and fourth this season, came two innings apart, off starter and loser Roric Harrison.

In the fifth, after Roger Metzger drove in the Astros' second run with a single, Cedeno hit a two-run blast. Then in the seventh, Cedeno lined Harrison's pitch over the centerfield wall and scored behind Greg Gross and Metzger.

Osteen, a 16-game winner for Los Angeles last year, scrambled out of trouble in four early innings and allowed seven hits for his first complete game this year.

Atlanta's Harrison, 1-3, threw well through four innings before Doug Rader doubled off the wall to open the scoring in the fourth. Harrison was lifted after Cedeno's second home run.

Pacers Top Utah Stars

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The Indiana Pacers rode a combined 58-point performance by Mel Daniels and George McGinnis to a 110-101 victory over the Utah Stars Monday and remain alive in the American Basketball Association's Western division Championship playoff series.

The two Indiana big men scored 29 points each to spark the victory, which trimmed the Stars' lead to 3-2 in the best-of-seven series. Indiana once trailed 3-0.

New Tourney Riches Won't Spoil Women?

NEW YORK (AP) — Women's tennis continued its financial boom Monday with the announcement of a $100,000 tournament bearing a first prize of $32,000, but Billie Jean King insisted it's not going to spoil the court ladies.

It will be the second $100,000 event for the women, joining the Family Circle Cup which holds its second annual tourney at Sea Pines, S.C., starting April 30.

"Aren't you afraid so much money is likely to corrupt the sport?" a woman reporter asked the Wimbledon champion at a news conference.

"No, it will make it more honest," replied Billie Jean tartly. "It's beautiful. On the contrary, more money will make the game more honest."

"I know I've been on the other side. Tennis was never more corrupt than when it had the so-called amateurs taking their payoffs under the table."

Billie Jean was the main showpiece at a press conference called to announce the $100,000 tournament Oct. 14-19 at the 12,000-seat Los Angeles Sports Arena.

The top 16 players of the 18-tournament Virginia Slams circuit will qualify for the rich event by a performance percentage based on appearance in at least five tournaments.

The field is expected to include the top women, such as Mrs. King, Chris Evert, Evonne Goolagong, Virginia Wade and Rosemary Casals.

Billie Jean said California was chosen as site of the first of these rich championships because of its enthusiastic reception of women's tennis.

"When we played at San Francisco, people began queuing up for tickets at 4 o'clock in the afternoon," Ms. King said. "We had to turn hundreds away."

Billie Jean admitted that she had never had a fondness for Florida. "Florida writers have gone out of their way to be critical of me—I don't know why," she said.

At the age of 30, winner of every major women's title and in the forefront of the women's lib movement, the bouncy, bespectacled Billie Jean is contemplating no reduction of her heavy tennis schedule.

"I love tennis just for the sake of playing it," she said. "I will continue playing as long as I can win. I don't plan to play until I'm held together by adhesive tape or until I'm over the hill."

"I hate to lose. When I find I can't win any more—can't stay on top—then, and only then, will I call it quits."

Billie Jean said her present goals are to win Wimbledon a sixth time, make a success of her women's sports magazine and lead the Philadelphia Freedoms to victory in World Team Tennis.

"Winning the Grand Slam has never interested me," she said referring to a sweep of the Australian, French, Wimbledon and U.S. titles in a single year. "I won all but the Australian in 1972. I don't consider the Australian a major championship. The best players never go there."

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Mike Lemongello rolled an eight-game qualifying total of 1-904 to lead a field of 24 bowlers into the Masters tournament portion of the American Bowling Congress events here.

Lemongello, 29, of St. Paul, Minn., rolled games of 246, 223, 213, and 209 Sunday to go with a four-game 1,013 Saturday to beat out Don Johnson of Akron, Ohio, by 41 pins.

Tim Harahan posted a 1,859 for third.

Also among the qualifiers were Nelson Burton Jr., Olivett, Mo., who had a 298, Sunday's top single game.

Elder Gains Cash Boost

NEW YORK (AP) — Lee Elder's overtime victory in the Monsanto Open Golf Tournament did more than qualify him for the Masters—it projected him from 59th to 16th in the tour's money winning list.

Elder's first prize of $30,045 boosted his season's earnings to $44,528.12. One of the few black players on the tour, he becomes the first black eligible to play in the Masters.

With many of the top-ranking players not competing at Pensacola, the Top Ten in the money list remained unchanged, according to figures released Monday by the PGA Tournament Players Division.

Johnny Miller continues to lead with $152,877, followed by Hubert Green, $87,851; Leonard Thompson, $82,729, and Jerry Heard, $82,283.

Jack Nicklaus, leading money winner last year, is in fifth place with $77,476. He is followed by Lee Trevino, $70,957; John Mahaffey, $68,750; Hale Irwin, $67,972; Dave Stockton, $64,842; and Bobby Nichols, $60,929.

Roster Change For U.S. Team

NEW YORK (AP) — Sharon Walsh of San Rafael, Calif., has replaced Janet Newberry of La Jolla, Calif., on the U. S. Federation Cup tennis team in Napoli, Italy, May 12-19.

The Federation Cup is the ladies' version of the men's Davis Cup, an international team competition.

Donna Floyd Fales, the U. S. captain, said Monday that Miss Newberry had to withdraw because of other commitments. Miss Walsh has played on three previous teams.

Black Problem Said Nonexistent

LARAMIE, Wyo. (UPI) — Wyoming track coach John Walker said Monday he was ready to answer grievances of five of his black athletes at a special meeting.

Athletic Director George McCarty set up the meeting between Walker and the black athletes but the coach demanded that it be a team meeting.

"There is no black problem on our team and we don't want to start one by meeting with them alone," Walker said. "We have five blacks on our team who aren't involved in this and as far as I know, they have no complaints at all."

None of the five black athletes, three of whom have quit the team, has charged

Walker with racism but they have a list of grievances. The coach of 13 seasons at Wyoming denied any discrimination. "I've had more whites quit this year than blacks," said Walker.

The Wyoming football program suffered a setback in 1969 when 14 black players were dismissed by then Coach Lloyd Eaton. He kicked them off the team for planning to wear black arm bands in a game with Brigham Young University.

UPI learned the complaints included a lack of communication with Walker, methods of selection for attending meets, allegedly unfulfilled recruiting promises and a lack of proper training facilities.

The meeting was set up by McCarty after two of the trackmen approached him and said they weren't able to meet with Walker. Two white members of the team, who didn't want to be identified, also said they had similar grievances.

Carrell Harris, a 440 specialist, Don Simpkins, a middle distance runner; and Robert Green, a sprinter and hurdler, all have quit the team. They all were freshmen from Washington, D.C.

Having enough car can be as important as having enough gasoline.

How much car depends on how you use it.

Form follows function. This is especially applicable to the choice of an automobile today. How many miles a day do you drive? How many passengers do you usually carry? How many vacation trips do you take in your car? How many drivers are in your household? The answers can help you pick the right size car for the way you drive.

Sometimes a bigger car is better. No question about it, many smaller cars do offer more miles per gallon, but they're not as spacious. As a result, cars like Buick LeSabre and Electra 225 carry certain fundamental advantages. Like leg and hiproom, for example. Don't forget luggage space, either. And the ability to cruise the open highway in smooth Buick comfort.

Then again, maybe spaciousness isn't such a factor. In that case, a small car like Opel Manta may be just what you need. Its inherent 4-cylinder economy is matched by responsive handling, maneuverability and braking. Your Buick dealer has other small cars, too. Like Apollo. Its 6-cylinder engine and standard 21-gallon gas tank give it miles per gallon and range. And there's the mid-sized Buick Century, which condenses the comforts and luxuries of bigger Buicks into a smaller, more personalized package. Let your Buick dealer help you pick the right size Buick for the way you use your car. From Opel to Electra 225, he has a Buick for the way you drive.

BUICK

Opel/Apollo/Century/Riviera/Electra 225

Wylie: Test Average Citizen's Chance

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

William Wylie, farmer, stockman, auctioneer, real estate broker, legislative lobbyist and former state senator, wants to add the title of lieutenant governor to that list of occupations.

"I'd like to see if an average Nebraskan can get elected to the lieutenant governorship without spending a lot of money," the 45-year-old Republican candidate points out.

Wylie has about $2,000 in his campaign kitty, he said, but is hoping for more.

In his two-candidate contest with Anne Batchelder of Omaha for the GOP nomination, Wylie noted, he also enters the race "without a lot of different groups behind me."

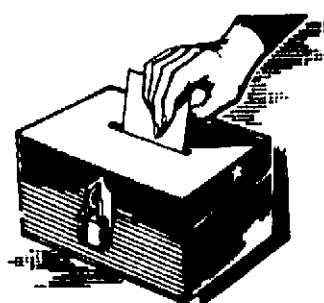

But, he suggested, "because of all the problems that seem to be going on around the country in politics, it's time we try to see if an average citizen can be elected."

Fiscal Conservative

Wylie, who farms Antelope County land near Elgin, served in the Legislature from 1965 to 1971, writing the record of a fiscal conservative, often standing alone or in a small minority of senators who opposed legislative enactments.

"I don't think that I am personally a conservative," he said.

"But when you are spending

someone else's money, when you are spending taxpayer's money, I think you should look at it twice rather than just going ahead with it."

In key votes in the historic 1967 Legislature, which broke with tradition on many fronts, Wylie voted with the majority to enact the new sales-income tax system.

But he was one of seven senators who voted against institution of a program of state aid to the public schools, and he opposed creation of the University of Nebraska at Omaha.

(In 1965, Wylie voted against enactment of a state income tax law, later repealed in a voter referendum.)

Wylie's proudest legislative achievement was sponsorship of the 1969 law creating a program of state financial aid for community programs for the mentally retarded.

"I think that bill really turned the state around in that respect," Wylie said. "I have been amazed at the results. It accomplished even more than I expected."

The Wylie bill served as a prototype for 1974 legislation which will provide 75% state support for community programs for mental health.

Unique Record

Wylie's family holds a unique record of legislative service.

His father, Matt, served in the Legislature from 1961 until his death in 1964. His mother, Fanny, was appointed to fill the vacancy, and she was replaced by her son in 1965.

As a state senator, Wylie rose to a position of leadership in 1969, serving as chairman of the Committee on Committees.

His legislative career ended with the 1970 election, when he was edged by John DeCamp.

"Better Liaison"

As lieutenant governor, with his experience as a state senator, Wylie believes, he could "bring about better liaison" between the governor and the Unicameral.

That's one reason why he opposes the proposed constitutional amendment to remove the lieutenant governor as presiding officer of the Legislature.

Voters will determine that issue in the May 14 primary election, and Wylie will vote against the proposal.

"I think an elected official should continue to be the presiding officer," he said.

Wylie plans to travel throughout the state, "from Chadron to Omaha," prior to his May 14 appointment with Republican voters.

"I have no axe to grind," he will tell them. "I'm just interested in good, honest, sound government."

No Concessions Yet

Nicosia (UPI) — President Archbishop Makarios says his government is not prepared to make any concessions to the Turkish community on this island republic of Cyprus on the issue of limited autonomy for ethnic regions.

Most Murders Solved

LONDON (AP) — There were 110 murders in London during 1973 and all but 10 were solved, Scotland Yard said. There were 113 murders in 1972. London recorded an average of 100 muggings a month last year, down from 129 a month the year before.

1. 75% of all moves are in June, July, and August. Movers are especially busy around the first of the month. If possible, plan to move in April or May... and in the middle of the month.
2. Plan your move far in advance for a more convenient and successful move.
3. Send for our Atlas Van Lines brochures on moving. They cover everything from packing, care of valuables, to tips to use your moving as an income tax deduction.
4. Give away heavy, bulky items you rarely use. This will save your moving expense, and the gift to a charitable organization is deductible.

Lincoln Phase Opened Of NWU's Fund Drive

Some 80 volunteer workers, under the direction of John Olsson, opened the Lincoln phase of Nebraska Wesleyan University's $3,510,000 development fund raising effort.

Olsson, Lincoln businessman and chairman of the city-wide effort, said the basic goal is to raise enough money so Nebraska Wesleyan can continue its quality educational program.

The volunteers will be making some 500 calls in the next few weeks, with the first report luncheon set for Friday and the final report meeting scheduled for May 2, according to Charles E. Sconyers, vice president for development at NWU.

NWU Pres. Vance D. Rogers said people who support Nebraska Wesleyan can look upon their gifts as both an investment and an important involvement in the lives of young men and women.

"The first major indication of support for our fund-raising effort came from major business firms in the city of Lincoln," Dr. Rogers noted. "Individuals who support us should know that business in Lincoln is making a significant contribution to Nebraska Wesleyan."

The fund raising effort, known as phase 11 of the Decade for Fulfillment, has passed the $2.2 million mark. The program will provide funds for two new buildings on campus, a fieldhouse and theatre-speech center, scholarships, current budget support and campus improvements.

Introducing SOS...a program offering free personal assistance to those who need help at a very difficult time.

None of us like to think about it but with the passing of a loved one, families are almost immediately faced with a multitude of matters that must be resolved in settling various business and personal affairs.

SOS is a program that is designed specifically to assist families during such periods of adjustment — by providing the services of trained specialists whose intimate knowledge of many of the steps that must be taken can save family members time and unnecessary confusion.

Assistance provided by SOS

At time of need, family members are invited to call First National and arrange for an appointment with an SOS specialist. Working with a member or members of the family, the specialist will prepare a comprehensive checklist defining the proper authorities to be notified and where they are located. The checklist will also cover certain practical measures that should be taken and the documents and other basic information that will be required in filing claims for such benefits as:

Social Security	Railroad Retirement
Civil Service	Profit-Sharing Plans
Life Insurance	Teacher's Benefits
Pension Plans	Workmen's Compensation
Veteran's Benefits	Credit Life Insurance

Knowing the exact documents needed in filing various claims gives family members the opportunity to assemble data that is required and avoid repeated conferences with claims personnel at various government agencies.

SOS does not replace the need for legal and other professional services

In settling the business and personal affairs of a deceased, the services of attorneys, public accountants and life underwriters are required in resolving legal matters, fulfilling accounting requirements, and in settling life insurance claims. Accordingly, SOS specialists discuss areas in which such services are required and advise families of much of the detailed information that will be needed to proceed with professional counseling. However, under no circumstances will an SOS specialist attempt to provide legal, accounting or other professional services.

SOS pre-need booklet

For those wishing to prepare in advance for the eventual settling of business and personal affairs, First National offers a free SOS booklet. Here, vital data that will be required can be entered now — while all members of the family are able to calmly contribute to organizing the details that sooner or later must be faced. The booklets are available from SOS specialists headquartered in the lobby of the Main Bank.

SOS is a courtesy service

You can obtain SOS assistance in the lobby of First National Lincoln simply by asking for it. You need not be a customer of the bank. The service is free and available to anyone who needs it.

Swearingen Not Contacted By County

Lancaster County Board candidate William R. (Bill) Swearingen said Monday that he is the real estate broker with the exclusive listing on the property reportedly under consideration for lease by the county for office space but that his firm has not been contacted about a possible lease. In reference to a Lincoln Star story which appeared Saturday, in which County Board Chairman Robert Colin stated that a real estate firm is looking into a lease agreement for the former "Here's Johnny's" property at 17th and M, Swearingen said that it was "very surprising" to him.

Swearingen, who is seeking the post now held by Colin, said that he has the exclusive listing on the property and the only key to the building.

He said that Swearingen Co. is open for offers on the property but has not been approached by any real estate man on a cooperative lease arrangement for the county.

"This is the type of misinformation that is continually coming from Commissioner Robert Colin this kind of statement is totally false," he said.

He said that his firm would be "more than happy to cooperate with the county," but neither his firm nor the owners of the present lease have been contacted

Hamilton Proposes Working Toward 'Constructive' Merger

Working "toward a constructive merger of county and city functions" will be the goal of H. Bruce Hamilton if elected Lancaster County commissioner Hamilton, who is seeking the Democratic nomination for the post now held by Commissioner Kenneth Bourne, said that he is pleased with the passage of LB995, which creates a county personnel system.

He said he feels that the in regard to subleasing the building.

County commissioners indicated Friday that they were considering the leasing of the property for office space for the Lancaster County Superintendent of Schools who has stated he would move to make room for expansion of adjacent offices in the County-City Building providing the office space offered is suitable to his needs passage of the bill providing for unified purchasing by county government is a "most encouraging development."

"I support the move by the county to contract with the city to implement these new purchasing and personnel services," he said, adding that "hard-working officials willing to work in a cooperative fashion can continue this trend toward better management techniques."

'Residential Quality' Of District Big Concern For Marge Schlitt

Lincoln legislative candidate Marge Schlitt Monday said the Legislature "must provide new tools to help maintain the residential quality of the 28th District."

A way must be found "to relieve the economic pressures which encourage the disorderly introduction of high density apartments and shopping areas into residential areas," she said.

As a member of the board of the Near South Neighborhood Assn., she said, she has found that present measures are not adequate.

10th Consecutive Math Event Won By Central High

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Omaha Central High School has won its 10th consecutive regional mathematics contest and its 15th out of the last 17.

Professor Charles Warden of the University of Nebraska at Omaha said Monday the Central squad scored 263 points out of a possible 450. Norfolk High was second with 228 and Fremont High third with 22.

Members of the winning team were Jeffrey Klopping, David Still and Margaret Marshall.

Klopping, a junior, had the top score in the region, 108. Nebraska and six southeastern South Dakota counties are in the area.

Still and Miss Marshall are seniors

Besides Klopping, four students from other Nebraska schools who took the test March 12th were named to the national honor roll for scoring more than 80 points

Warden said they are John Say of Norfolk, 104; Kevin Powell of Lincoln Southeast, 103, Tom Lannin of Fremont, 94, and Mark Hall of Lincoln East, 88

Hartley Group Gets Update On Whittier

"The Whittier Junior High School is one that will eventually be abandoned," Lincoln Schools Superintendent John Prashch told the Hartley Neighborhood Association Monday night.

The group of about 30 people attending the meeting voiced some objections to the tentative projection, but Prashch said the declining enrollment figures, if they follow projections, will sooner or later force the closing.

He said that about half the building is currently being used by the Lincoln Technical College and that the other half is being used by the 430 junior high students enrolled there.

Although Whittier is not a building with structural defects, he said, "the problem is due to population shifts. The children just aren't where the building is."

The cost per pupil has risen to $754, he said, while the next most expensive cost per pupil is $559 at Everett Junior High. Additionally, he said, the Northeast Radial is projected to run practically next door, cutting off about half the school district.

If the school is closed the children will go to the Culler and Lefler Junior High Schools, but he stressed that the closing of Whittier is only a projection and that no final decision has been made.

He said the Lincoln School Board likes to give three years notice before the closing of a junior high school, so normal operations will continue for the 1974-75 school year.

Lumber Yard Hit By Blaze; Youths Sought

A fire at the Lincoln Lumber Co., 923 No. 23, damaged $8,000 to $10,000 worth of cedar lumber Monday evening, fire officials reported.

Police and fire officials reported that two or three youths had been seen playing on the piled lumber shortly before the blaze and that one of them was seen to be attempting to light a fire.

Fire officials said there was quite a bit of evidence that the fire had been deliberately set.

A company official said his first estimate of the amount of lumber damaged would be $8,000 to $10,000.

An employee at the yard said much of the lumber could still be salvaged if the burned portions were cut off and the boards resized, although there was considerable water damage.

Junior League Sponsors Tree Program

All Lincoln third-graders began a learn-by-doing ecology project Monday, in the Junior League of Lincoln's second annual "Birth of a Tree" program.

Mrs. Ruth Davis, Junior League Arbor Day chairman, said about 1,300 children were each given three Norway Spruce seedlings and a self-contained growing block.

The seedlings, fast-growing evergreens, will be kept in the schools for three weeks, but should germinate in eight to 12 days, she said. The kids will plant them in a special class project.

The intent, Mrs. Davis said, is to allow the children "to actually see how a tree begins" and watch it grow. Later, they may take the trees home to transplant in their yards.

The program is a cooperative venture between the Lincoln Public Schools and the Junior League. Mrs. Davis said the league paid for the seedlings and growing blocks.

Wakefield Farm Produces 216,000 Eggs Every Day

WAKEFIELD, Neb. (AP) — Eggs by automation. That is how it's done here at Big Red Farms, Inc.

With six buildings of 40 by 527 feet dimensions, housing over 60,000 laying hens each, eggs roll out of confinement cages onto conveyor belts to the tune of some 216,000 per day. And all the units are not at peak production yet.

Confinement laying houses of this size and scope are new to the Siouxland area. So new, that much of the designing and equipment is trial.

First National Adding Second Auxiliary Site

Ground will be broken within the next few days for the second auxiliary location of First National Bank and Trust Co. of Lincoln, bank President William C. Smith said Monday.

The new building at 56th and O Sts. will be done within 12 months, he said, but until architectural plans are completed, he can give no cost estimate, he added.

Within 75 days, however, Smith said, a temporary facility for bank customers will be up at the 56th and O Sts. site.

The 4-story building will house

Jacob North Firm Is Sold To Calhoun

Sale of the Jacob North Inc. printing firm to David T. Calhoun has been announced by company president Don North.

Ownership of the firm, operating in Lincoln since 1888, transfers on April 30.

Calhoun, a Lincoln native, has been for the past seven years director of sales and customer services for Bomer's Printing Co. Before that, he edited a weekly newspaper in Florida.

Calhoun said the firm will retain its name and Don North will remain with the firm as a consultant. The firm is located at 26th and O Sts. and has 58 employees.

Omaha's Riverfront Dedicated

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—About 75 business and civic leaders were in attendance Monday as Omaha's Riverfront Industrial Park was dedicated.

Bulldozers broke ground at the park site just north of Eppley Airfield.

Sirney Cate, president of the Omaha Industrial Foundation, said it is "the most ambitious project OIF has undertaken in its 22-year history."

He added "We anticipate it will be our greatest success."

The 273-acre park, a $10.3 million project is being developed with the help of a $4.4 million federal grant.

The park is to serve light and heavy industries including manufacturing, warehousing and commercial facilities.

Northern Natural Gas Co. and the Kansas-Nebraska Natural Gas Co. are Cengas' two pipeline suppliers.

The exact amount of refund will vary, according to Cengas Lincoln Division Manager C. L. Wilcox, but will total about $15 per customer, over a 12-month period. The refund will appear on the customers' monthly statements as "gas cost credit," and that amount will be subtracted from the monthly bill.

Wilcox said on April 11 rate increase application if approved by Northern Natural Gas Co. would increase customers' annual bills by 6.5% a year. The increase would become effective about Oct. 27, he said.

Mild Loss Posted

New York (AP) — The stock market drifted to a mild loss in another inconclusive session Monday.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials eased off 1.33 to 858.57, and the New York Stock Exchange's composite index of all its listed common stocks was down .22 at 49.69.

Declines outnumbered advances by more than 2 to 1 on the Big Board in a very light turnover of 10.5 million shares.

Brokers said predictions of a continuing rise in banks' prime lending rate helped keep investors wary and inactive.

They also noted remarks by Arthur F. Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, who told reporters the Fed was determined to stick with a moderately restrictive monetary policy in order to combat inflation. Such a policy probably would mean continuing high interest rates, analysts observed, but it did not appear investors' reaction to the news was entirely negative.

"Inflation has been clearly identified as a chronic problem facing the market," said Larry Wachtel at Bache & Co. "Bays people are looking at Burns' remarks with the idea that the Fed policy might be painful in the short term but that we might benefit from it over the long run."

Mesabi Trust Certificates was the Big Board volume leader, down 2 1/2 at 79 1/2. The trust receives royalties from Reserve Mining Co. operator of a Silver Bay, Minn., plant ordered closed by a federal judge for environmental reasons.

Armco Steel lost 1 1/2 to 49 1/2. Republic Steel was off 1 1/2 to 29 1/2. The two companies are co-owners of Reserve Mining.

Report of first quarter earnings gains boosted DuPont Industries 1/4 to 9 1/4 and New Process Co. 1/4 to 14 1/4.

The American volume leader was Marquardt, down 1/2 to 40 1/2. The company is a major supplier of aircraft engines.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

When The Alarm Goes Off She's "One Of The Guys"

By LINDA OLIG
Star Staff Writer

"It's no simple matter climbing a 20-foot ladder with shoes this big," said Donna Behlen, gesturing to indicate a 12-inch span, "and carrying a 1½-inch hose and five-pound nozzle."

She was explaining the rigors of firefighting and training.

Donna Behlen is a petite, attractive woman, capable of displaying all the "womanly charms"—until the alarm goes off alerting volunteers for the Southeast Rural Fire Protection District of potential danger to life and property.

Then she's just "one of the guys." One of the district's 24 volunteer firefighters.

A full-time bookkeeper, the female firefighter has, on occasion appeared at fires in a dress and high-heeled shoes.

But once she has worked her way into her gear, she is responsible for carrying her share of the load. She runs the pumpers, drives the trucks, mans the hoses, climbs the ladders.

And she carries a lot of weight around when on duty.

The firefighting equipment she must wear weighs nearly as much as she does.

"You would have to be a contortionist or weigh twice as much as I do" merely to get the 40-pound breathing apparatus in place by yourself, said the 5-foot-3-inch, 105-pounder.

And her other equipment is equally heavy. Three pounds of helmet, 15 pounds of insulated coat, and 10 pounds of boots, plus the breathing apparatus—that adds up to a whopping 68 pounds.

The biggest problem Mrs. Behlen had in locating pint-sized firefighting apparel, was the boots. She needed size four, but had to settle for size five—still not all that easy to find—and even then, she wears a pair of moccasins to fill the gaps.

And moving around in her boots has presented still another problem. "It's like walking with cement blocks on your feet," Mrs. Behlen laughed.

Mrs. Behlen admitted having second thoughts even before submitting her application as a volunteer firefighter.

She and her husband, Kent, also a district firefighter, had discussed the possibility she would be rejected "because I am a woman," Mrs. Behlen admitted.

"It was one of the most unusual applications the chief's board had ever considered," observed Eric Rasmussen, district volunteer fire chief.

"The only feeling voiced at the time was . . . 'The name of the game is do it like everyone else' with no special considerations or privileges," added Rasmussen, who also serves as rural fire training manager for the state forester.

The district's first female firefighter readily assessed her status within the department: "Because of my size, there are lots of things I can't do. But there is a lot I can do that the guys can't."

It didn't take long for her to discover just that. At her first meeting, she was assigned to place chains on the trucks' tires. "I was the only one with hands small enough to get them between the tires," Mrs. Behlen explained. She did it, even though it meant lifting the 30-pound chains into place.

Has her presence at the fires and training drills changed things at the station?

"We've asked her not to attend the stags," admitted her husband.

"And the language has improved," added Rasmussen.

The chief said the existence of female firefighters was uncommon until five years ago when bedroom communities suffering from limited response discovered the need for daytime protection.

The small Nebraska community of Phillips also has a handful of women who are trained to assume firefighting tasks, Rasmussen added.

Nebraska has 14,000 volunteer firefighters affiliated with some 475 departments, said Russell Salak of Schuyler, secretary-treasurer of the Nebraska State Volunteer Firemen's Association.

Salak, however, said he "questions whether we have ladies doing the firefighting work." Some women drive fire trucks and rescue units. Others serve as dispatchers, he explained.

If they do exist, what shall they be called? Lady firemen? Female firefighters? Fire persons?

"You can call me anything . . . just don't call me a firebelle," Mrs. Behlen answered.

SLA 'General' Vows Fivefold Retaliation

Sacramento, Calif. (AP) — A man purporting to be "General Pax" of the Symbionese Liberation Army vowed in messages to a Sacramento newspaper Monday that five California peace officers would be slain for any SLA member killed.

"The Symbionese Liberation Army will not allow itself to be slaughtered by the Fascist forces who suppress us now," said a printed message received by the Sacramento Bee.

The statement and an accompanying tape recording were sent to FBI headquarters in Washington for analysis.

John Reed, agent in charge of the Sacramento FBI office, said the two messages do not follow the pattern of known communiques from the SLA, which claims responsibility for the Feb 4 kidnapping of newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst.

But he said the FBI cannot assume they are not authentic. "Since the life of the victim is still in jeopardy and the lives of police officers are in jeopardy, we can't take that chance," Reed said.

The brown manila package, delivered to the newspaper in the mail, contained nothing to document that it was from the SLA, Bee executives said. The package bore on April 19 postmark from Berkeley, 80 miles southwest, where the Hearst kidnapping occurred.

The name General Pax has not appeared on any of the earlier SLA communications, the style was different from messages believed to be from the SLA and there was no reference to Miss Hearst.

On the tape, the man calling himself General Pax said the messages were sent to the Bee since "you represent the capital of the State of California." "You are responsible for informing the appropriate authorities. The purpose of this order is to prevent the setup and assassination of the members of the SLA by the Fascist state agents," said the man called Pax, Latin for peace. "Do not think that by eliminating a few of our members that you can destroy our movement," the voice said. "We are everywhere."

A second unidentified voice on the tape, said, "Any murders of SLA members, whether by police raids or undercover attack, will not be tolerated by this organization. Reprisals will consist of the execution of five California peace officers for every SLA member murdered."

The Nebraska Medical Association (NMA) policy committee has "endorsed Dr. Samuel I. Fuenning and the excellence of his ability" as medical director of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Health Center, according to NMA President Jack Coe, M.D., of Omaha.

Dr. Coe said Monday that in a better sent to University of Nebraska Regents Chairman Kermit Hansen of Omaha, NMA "suggested to the Board of Regents that in any reorganization of any university administrative policies, that care be taken not to interfere with the method of health care delivery at the student health center."

The regents Saturday authorized UNL Chancellor James Zumbeke to reorganize the health center into two parts: the Nebraska Center for Health Education, for research and teaching, and the University Health Center, for student health care.

Dr. Fuenning would be reassigned from his post as health center medical director to head the new health education arm.

Physicians who provide specialty care on a part-time basis at the health center are embroiled in a controversy about UNL administrators' reorganization plan and methods, protesting that Fuenning's reassignment is actually a move to fire him, and that health care will be affected.

UNL administrators have said the reorganization was necessary to establish a financially sound operation at the health center, which has operated at a deficit. Zumbeke said earlier that Dr. Fuenning's reassignment would allow better use of his talents.
